

He will go, will divulge the reason advanced by Miss Lambert for wishing to do away with herself. This has been a moot point among those who believe the girl committed suicide.

Two facts have been advanced as possible motives. One was that she believed herself destined to become a mother. The other was that she was prompted by despair at the knowledge that Orpet had thrown her over for Miss Celeste Youker, a pretty school teacher of De Kalb.

Advance Jealousy Theory.

In view of Mr. Wilkerson's remark that the defense had information that Miss Lambert knew two weeks before she died that she was not in trouble, it seems likely the theory of the defense is that the girl killed herself because her sweetheart's love had cooled and she had been supplanted by another.

The theory of the state is that Orpet brought cyanide of potassium to their meeting place in the woods and persuaded the girl to take it on the pretense that it was medicine to relieve her condition. This theory would be weakened materially if it can be proved Miss Lambert knew she was not in a condition requiring medicine.

Bottle Remains Mystery.

In the circumstantial evidence of the prosecution as far as State's Attorney Dady had let the public into his confidence regarding the weakest point is the lack of any evidence to prove that Orpet ever purchased any cyanide of potassium or ever obtained any anywhere or ever had any in his possession at any time.

Before leaving Madison he wrote an alibi letter which showed plainly he was about to do something he wished to keep secret and all responsibility for which he hoped to escape. A few hours before he took the train for Lake Forest he bought an empty two ounce bottle from Charles Hanning, a drug clerk. Orpet never has explained the purchase of that bottle. Neither have his lawyers. With its purchase the bottle disappears completely from the case. It never has been found nor has its disappearance ever been accounted for.

Filled at Greenhouse?

The vial is supposed—and only supposed—by the lawyers for the prosecution to have been filled by Orpet with cyanide of potassium stolen from his father's greenhouse on the night before Miss Lambert's death. At the order of Orpet's father, Percy Longland, a subgardener, buried the entire supply of cyanide of potassium on the night a few days after the boy's arrest.

This was looked upon as a suspicious circumstance. Mr. Orpet explained it by saying the drug was below grade. But whatever his reason for getting rid of the poison, the fact remains that evidence has been brought to light to show that Orpet visited his father's greenhouse on the night preceding the tragedy and that he filled the bottle with cyanide from his father's supply or from anywhere else. The absence of this evidence is the one missing link in the evidence of the state. Orpet's lawyers believe it will prove a chasm too wide for the jury to bridge with a conclusion.

In Crystal Form.

The theory of the defense is that Marian Lambert brought the poison to the trial in the woods with her mind made up to carry out the suicide threat already made in her letter. It is argued also that the poison in crystal form rather than in solution. It might have been knitted in her handkerchief. It might have been wrapped in a piece of paper which was whisked away by the wind after she was dead.

The crystals of the poison were found on her cheek and in the palm and under the finger nails of her right hand. It is the contention of the defense that the crystals under the finger nails disprove the original theory that the poison, whether self-administered or taken at Orpet's suggestion, was brought to the meeting place dissolved in water in a bottle.

Hand Ungloved.

One little point right here would seem also to bear mute witness in favor of the defense. The girl's hand on which the crystals were found had not been gloved as if for the purpose of taking the poison. The glove was found beside her body. The glove on her left hand had not been removed.

Though there is no evidence that Miss Lambert ever obtained any cyanide of potassium anywhere or ever had any in her possession, it is clear, according to Mr. Wilkerson and his associates, that she had just as good opportunities for getting the poison as Orpet. Frank Lambert, her father, is caretaker on the Jones Kuppenheimer estate and keeps a large supply of cyanide in his greenhouses as E. O. Orpet is accustomed to keep in his. So Miss Lambert without much trouble could have obtained all the poison she wanted from her father's stores.

Another place where she could have obtained the poison was from the chemical laboratory of the Deerfield High school, in which she was a pupil. A plentiful supply of the drug was kept unsealed on an open shelf in the school.

In the chemistry class a suggestive incident occurred the day before Miss Lambert stepped into Helm's woods to die. It was told for the first time yesterday by Raymond Russell of Lake Forest, who, with Miss Lambert, was a member of the class.

"The last day Marian attended school," said Russell, "she and I sat near each other in the chemistry class. She was not greatly interested in chemistry. She used to play and gossip most of the time. This day she giggled more than usual."

"Then Prof. C. F. Craig announced that our next lesson would be on cyanide of potassium. At the mention of the poison I saw Marian's face suddenly straighten. Her laughter ceased. She became serious on the instant. The professor said we would find our lesson on page 208 of our chemistry book, and I saw Marian turn to the page, mark it with her pencil, and read the lesson over eagerly."

Russell brought out his own chemistry book and showed where he, too, had marked the lesson. On the margin of the page was "2-10-16," which meant Thursday, Feb. 10, the day after Marian Lambert died. The lesson read:

Cyanogen (C₂N₂) and hydrocyanic acid (HCN). At high temperatures carbon unites with hydrogen to form the colorless and very poisonous, cyanogen (C₂N₂). With hydrogen and nitrogen it forms hydrocyanic acid, often called prussic acid. This is a colorless liquid, boiling at 36 degrees, and is one of the most poisonous substances known. Cyanogen is known as cyanide. Prussic acid is known as cyanide. They are likewise very poisonous. Sodium cyanide (NaCN) and potassium cyanide (KCN) are white solids. The solutions readily dissolve gold and are used in extracting gold from ore.

Page 208 of the Deerfield High school textbook on chemistry will be used as an exhibit by the defense," said Ralph Potter of Orpet's counsel. "It was Marian Lambert's last chemistry lesson. The tragedy in the snowdrifted forest proves how well she learned it."

Jury Selecting Progresses.

The work of selecting a jury before Judge Charles H. Donnelly made progress backward during the day. Whereas the day opened with four jurors passed tentatively by both sides, it closed with only one. This was Len Bartel of Antioch, who was selected Monday. C. W. Kohl of Lake Zurich and L. J. Bloum of Newport had been passed by the state.

Two hundred and twenty-three men have been examined for jury service since the trial began, and three venire have been exhausted. The state has used four of its twenty preemptory challenges and the defense five.

WARNS GERMANS: "OBEY U. S. LAWS"

Berlin Seeks to Absolve Self of Responsibility for Violence Acts.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The German government has taken decisive steps to absolve itself of responsibility for the acts of violence against the interests of allies on American soil and plotting against the neutrality of the United States which have been attributed to German spies and other secret agents.

Count von Bernstorff has issued a warning to German subjects in the United States against violating American laws. The following statement of his action was issued today by the German embassy:

"In consequence of cases that have occurred of late German Ambassador Bernstorff sent instructions to all the German consuls in the United States to impress strongly on German citizens living in their districts that it is their duty scrupulously to obey the laws of the states in which they reside."

Warning from Von Bernstorff.

The ambassador issued the warning in compliance with instructions from the Berlin foreign office. The German government, it is stated, is determined to convince the United States that it has not inspired the plots to destroy munition factories, munition ships, and other acts in violation of American neutrality.

German subjects who have engaged in such plotting have done so on their own responsibility and at their own initiative. Such persons and their activities are absolutely repudiated by the German government.

The recent cases to which the ambassador's statement refers include the conviction of Fay and Daeche for plotting to blow up ships carrying munitions to the allies. Fay asserts that he is a German military officer. The German government disclaims any knowledge of him and his name does not appear in the roster of German officers in the last ten years. He and other alleged German subjects charged with complicity in war plots are declared by the German government to be "agents provocateurs" employed by the allies to discredit Germany in the United States.

Ambassador von Bernstorff is pressing

WILSON ADDRESS MAY HOLD HINT OF PEACE MOVE

President Will Speak Before League Formed to Entist Nations Against War.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The possibility of an early restoration of peace in Europe and of plans to prevent war in the future was given added impetus among diplomats and officials here today by an announcement at the White House that President Wilson had accepted an invitation to speak either Friday or Saturday of next week before a meeting of the League to Enforce Peace, of which former President Taft is president.

Since the outbreak of the European war the president has refused many invitations to speak before peace organizations, but recently he advocated some of the things for which the League to Enforce Peace is working, including the formation of a league of nations with a common police force to maintain peace, and the establishment of an international court of justice.

Mr. Wilson is known to be giving deep consideration to the possibility of bringing about peace, and to have made a collection of every authoritative statement on the subject made by any responsible official in the belligerent nations since the outbreak of the war. While officials realize that much of the peace discussion may be propaganda, aimed to fix the responsibility for continuing the war, they nevertheless believe it is entirely possible that the time is rapidly approaching when peace proposals may be welcomed by all the belligerents.

Bryce Seen U. S. Peace Leader.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—When the European war is over the United States will be the one world power in a position to effect negotiations which will make impossible the recurrence of such a "frightful calamity," in the opinion expressed by James Bryce, former British ambassador to Washington, in an article on "America's Traditional Isolationism" which appears in the New Republic for May 20.

"All thoughtful men, both in Britain and as we are told, in the United States also, feel that some effort must be made to provide machinery calculated to prevent the recurrence of such a frightful calamity as this war has proved to be," Mr. Bryce writes.

The difficulties of such a scheme are obvious, but they will not be insuperable with the cooperation of the United States, which would bring to any concerted plan for the amicable settlement of disputes and for the maintenance of peace by a league to restrain aggression its authority, its strength, and that disinterestedness which belongs to its position outside the circle of European jealousies.

LOPE ADVISES GERMANY?

DENIED AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Confidential advice received from Berlin today of a message being sent to the German government by the Vatican, but it was described as being similar to the one recently sent to President Wilson, when the severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany appeared imminent.

The message was represented as expressing the hope that there would be no breach of relations, and offering the good offices of the pope to prevent such a rupture.

It is denied here that the message to Berlin contained any request for an abandonment of submarine warfare, and the opinion was expressed in diplomatic quarters that no more than one message had been sent.

VOTE ON MILITARY TRAINING

Mail to Chicago Tribune. Postcards Also Counted. Ballots Furnished on Application. Stop to Business Offices and Vote.

I do believe in making all young men who are physically and mentally fit liable for military training before reaching the age of 21.

I do believe that such a policy would not only produce the force of trained citizen soldiers necessary for the nation but would reduce the criminal rate, produce a higher type of manhood, and level class distinction by training the poor and rich alike in the higher duties of citizenship.

Universal Military Training Only Fair Way to Get Defense

BY CAPT. HENRY J. REILLY.

The second day of the poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE on the desirability of universal military training yielded 508 votes, making a total of 1,874 received in two days.

Many persons have asked from time to time what they could do to help obtain proper national defense. They can help tremendously by signing these ballots for universal military training, getting their friends to do so, and by writing their congressmen and senators to support Mr. Chamberlain's bill for universal training. A few days ago the senator said:

"When I introduced my bill for an Americanized Swiss system I did it with an abiding faith in the good judgment and patriotism of the American people."

Doubted It Would Pass.

When Senator Chamberlain submitted his bill, carrying out in the main the recommendations of the army war college, those who were opposed to preparedness smiled indulgently and few of the advocates of national defense believed that it would be passed. Even former Secretary of War Garrison, who indicated in his annual report that he believed the war college recommendations should be followed, did not think it was wise to send the report of the army experts to congress as his recommendations, and made to provide machinery calculated to prevent the recurrence of such a frightful calamity as this war has proved to be," Mr. Bryce writes.

The difficulties of such a scheme are obvious, but they will not be insuperable with the cooperation of the United States, which would bring to any concerted plan for the amicable settlement of disputes and for the maintenance of peace by a league to restrain aggression its authority, its strength, and that disinterestedness which belongs to its position outside the circle of European jealousies.

PREPARE RALLY SWEEPS CITIES OF THE NATION

Mayors Respond to Call for Defense Parade
on June 3.

At the suggestion of one of the organizers, the permanent telephone number of the Chicago preparedness parade headquarters in the Monach building was changed yesterday to CENTRAL 1776. Think of the year of the Declaration of Independence and you won't have to ask for the information operator.

The "preparedness parade" idea has swept the United States. At the suggestion of the committee in charge of Chicago's great demonstration planned for June 3 the mayors of twenty American cities joined yesterday in a general appeal to the nation to make the parade plan a universal one on that day.

The message was sent out by the various press associations at night. Within a few hours this TRIBUNE received assurances from between thirty and forty cities that plans for the demonstration either are under way already or will be set in motion today.

MANY ACCEPT JUNE 3.
In most cases the proposal of simultaneous parades on June 3 was accepted enthusiastically. A few cities have selected other dates because of local considerations. Several abandoned the previously chosen date in order to fall in with the nation-wide movement for which Chicago has become the inspirational center.

By the most conservative estimate possible 1,500,000 men, women, and children will actually march within the next few weeks as a concrete demonstration of their demand for a more adequate national defense. How many millions will view the pageants is a matter to be left only to the imagination.

Chicago Plans Advance.
Plans for the Chicago parade took definite shape with the final report of the organization committee to the original conference of forty at the University club, and the first meeting of the newly appointed executive committee in the Monach building headquarters late in the afternoon.

Although the demonstration of June 3 is expected to exceed in point of numbers any parade ever held in Chicago, this will not be its only unique feature. By the decree of the organization committee, no vehicles of any kind are to be permitted in the line. As far as the rank and file of the parade are concerned they are to walk.

Bar Out Motor Cars.
The only horse allowed will be those of the grand marshal and his aids, the cavalry regiments, artillery batteries, and mounted police. There will be no advertising banners or transparencies. The only flag carried will be the stars and stripes.

President Wilson may review the parade become known in the morning. When prominent Democrats called attention to the fact that the banquet of the Illinois State Bar association, which he has been invited to attend, is set for June 3, the day before the demonstration. The omission of the banquet is more than likely to inspire his presence here. Col. Roosevelt has promised to review the Kansas City preparedness demonstration in May and probably will accept a similar invitation in Chicago. Thomas A. Edison will be here, campaigning for Roosevelt, and undoubtedly will join the ranks of the marchers, as he did in New York.

List of Officials.
The parade officials and committee appointed by the organization committee were announced at the University club yesterday.

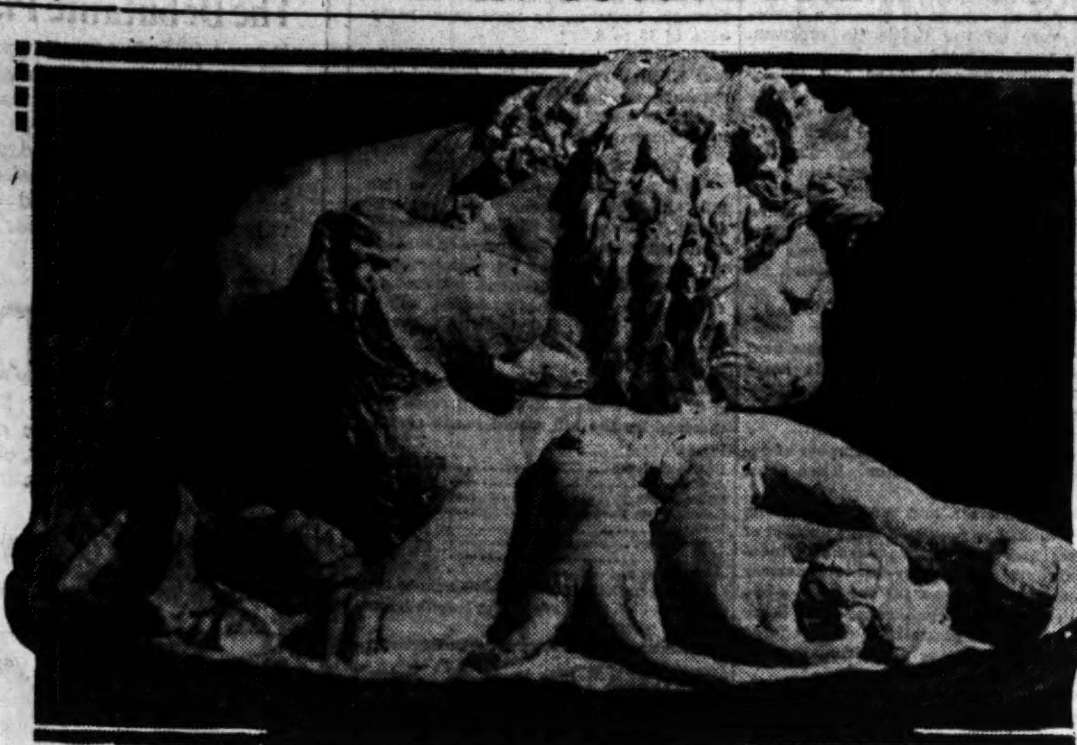

EXECUTIVE—John T. Stockton, chairman; Paul Steinhilber, Harry E. Herring, Eugene U. Kimbark, H. H. Merrick, Charles H. Wacker, Thomas E. Wilson, FINANCE—John A. Spoor, Samuel L. E. E. Sunny, E. D. Hurlbert, PUBLICITY—Francis H. Simmons, John H. Wood, John M. Glenn, E. de W. Coughlin, Philip A. Grau, Percy Anderson, DECORATIONS—D. F. Kelly, B. W. Robbins, Bernard J. Mullaney, Carroll Gauder.

GENERAL TREASURER—Frank O. Wetmore. GENERAL SECRETARY—Angus S. Hibbard. GRAND MARSHAL—Maj. Gen. E. C. Young.

SENT OUT APPEAL.
At its meeting in the afternoon the executive committee formulated its general appeal, which the press associations sent throughout the country in the evening. Invitations to mayors of the larger cities to join in the proclamation had met, for the most part, with hearty assent. The mayors of Rochester, N. Y., Boston, and Grand Rapids, Mich., reported that their dates had been chosen for local demonstrations; however, Mayor R. W. Spear of Des Moines and Mayor W. G. Wye of Minneapolis declined to join the movement in person. J. W. Hargrett, mayor of Dayton, O., sent assurances of his support at the last moment by long distance telephone.

New York Official Coming.
This morning the executive committee will confer with H. L. Van Wyck, organization secretary. The parade in New York, which is on the twentieth century limited with a mass of information and records. Mr. Van Wyck has tendered his services to the executive committee and probably will be employed as executive secretary here. A committee at large also is to be appointed today, including about 100 representatives of every industry and organization in the city. This body will consider the plan of sending a memorial to

NELLIE IN SCULPTURE

Nellie is dead and gone these three years, but she is coming back in eternal youth to the Lincoln park zoo. Nellie wasn't famous in 1894, when Fritz Albert modeled her and her brother and parents for Gustav Wilke. She was just an unproven and hungry cub. Later she became the most noted of all the lions in Cy De Vry's zoo. She lived to be 24 years old and died in 1913, after one famous love affair with Fritz, who was the father of her cub, 126 in all. Nellie was a great character, a spoiled wife, a loving mother, and an indulgent grandmother. At the time the original was made a plaster cast was taken and broken. Mrs. Marie Wilke, the widow of Gustav Wilke, has given the group in Carrara marble to the Lincoln park zoo, and it will be placed in Mr. De Vry's office near the front entrance of the lions' building.

DISCLOSE PLOT TO GET FRENCH SECRET ORDERS

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—The city administration justifies the tapping of the telephone wires that led into the office of Seymour & Seymour, lawyers in the Equitable building, on the ground that Police Commissioner Arthur Woods received information from J. P. Morgan & Co. that an employee of the Morgan firm and some one in the Seymour offices had conspired to furnish to munitions manufacturers the contents of secret cables and orders from the French minister of finance.

The details were disclosed tonight to the Thompson legislative committee following hours of conferences with Mayor Mitchell, Commissioner Woods, District Attorney Swann, and toward evening with Frederick Seymour, who alleged that he knew nothing about the alleged conspiracy of any one in his office.

Story Woods Will Tell.
Commissioner Woods will tell the story in an open session of the committee tomorrow morning. The gist of it is this: Three months ago the Morgan firm became aware that some one was obtaining surreptitious information about munitions orders from the French government. A clerk in the firm's employ was suspected. The Burns detective agency was put to work to find the leak, and the trail followed through certain orders that had been let led to the offices of Seymour & Seymour.

A dictaphone was installed in an adjoining office. Access was obtained to the offices themselves and papers were found containing exact copies of cablegrams and orders addressed to J. P. Morgan & Co. and signed by the French minister of finance.

Game Is Tipped Off.
A rival detective agency revealed the activity of the Burns people and the newspaper discussion of the Seymour dictaphone incident followed. That was the last of it. But it so happened that the publicity came just in time to tip off the persons involved, so that one of them escaped and the police were prevented from obtaining over the tapped telephone line the information that they sought.

MANY CITIES JOIN MOVEMENT FOR PREPARE PARADE AND RALLY JUNE 3

An inquiry seeking further light on sentiment toward preparedness, in view of the Chicago parade committee's request that other cities join in making a nation-wide demonstration, brought forth the following dispatches:

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Mayor Henry W. Kiel favors a nonpartisan preparedness parade on any date set by the National Security league. He said he prefers June 14 on the opening day of the Democratic national convention, which is also Flag day.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Kansas City will celebrate "National Preparedness day," May 30, the day Theodore Roosevelt was born here. Arrangements for a parade of 25,000 marchers, which will pass for review before the ex-president upon his arrival Memorial day have been made.

BOSTON, Mass.—Boston is to hold its preparedness parade on May 27. The plans are all made.

DES MOINES, Ia.—Fully 5,000 people are expected to participate in the preparedness parade, which will be held June 3. Mayor MacVicar probably will declare the day a holiday and designate it "Preparedness" day, in accordance with the practice of other cities.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Milwaukee will have a preparedness parade, a public mass meeting and general demonstration for the purpose of the city's preparedness. The announcement was made at the office of William M. Spooner, vice president of the National Security league, son of former United States Senator John C. Spooner. The proposal to have all western cities unite on June 3 as the date will be taken up as soon as a committee is named.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Mayor Joseph E. Bell said tonight: "I am considering the matter. I do not think that we need such a proposition. In Indiana we are all in favor of preparedness."

DETROIT, Mich.—Mayor Mark has received several telegrams and has put the matter in the hands of the council.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—There will be no preparedness parade in Louisville, according to Mayor Ruechman, despite the fact he has received telegrams from mayors of about twenty cities asking that Louisville participate.

CINCINNATI, O.—Mayor George Fuch has not been notified and will not make a statement. The Cincinnati branch of the National Security league will join in nation-wide observance June 3.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—The city officials have no authority to promote a preparedness parade, said Mayor Wallace G. Nye. "I submitted my telegram from Chicago to the Civic and Commerce association, which could back the movement if so inclined." The secretary of the association has turned the telegram over to the executive committee for consideration at the next meeting several days hence.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The nonpartisan parade will culminate in a purely political move for some candidate who will come out on a platform of preparedness, says Mayor Winn Powers. "I don't propose to act."

OMAHA, Neb.—I am personally opposed to any preparedness parade in Omaha, and none will be held here on June 3 under the auspices of the city officials, says Acting Mayor Dan Butler. The military affairs committee of the Commercial club will consider the appeal.

LINCOLN, Neb.—Mayor Charles W. Bryan, like his brother, William J. Bryan, is opposed to preparedness of any kind and consequently is not in favor of a general movement for a nonpartisan parade on June 3. A movement, however, as footed in Lincoln for a preparedness parade, with patriotic societies as sponsors, and although it was planned for Memorial day, the date may be changed to conform with that in other cities.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—I am very much in favor of nonpartisan preparedness parades and believe the idea to have all cities act in concert on June 3 is a good one, said Mayor Louis F. Fuhrmann. "However, Buffalo has completed arrangements for such a parade on Memorial day, when

CALL TO CITIES

Parade Headquarters Sends Request to Nation's Communities Urging Parade June 3.

This general appeal was sent out from the Chicago preparedness parade headquarters last night:

To the Mayors and Civic Authorities of Cities, Towns, and Villages Throughout the United States: Saturday, June 3, is being proclaimed throughout the United States as national preparedness day. The mayors of Newark, Cleveland, Cairo, Los Angeles, Toledo, Houston, Des Moines, Dallas, St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, Jersey City, New Orleans, and Chicago already have approved this date and plan and request all other cities and communities to join in this patriotic demonstration, which will take the form of nonpartisan preparedness parades.

It is hoped that all communities will join in this great nation-wide movement and will forthwith express by telegram to the undersigned their adoption of this plan and date in recognition of the fact that this is a day of wide publicity may be given to their patriotic cooperation.

No city or town is too small nor its citizens and executives too busy to attend to the nation's vital interest. This is a personal appeal addressed through the courtesy of the press of the country to the officials of every community.

JOHN T. STOCKTON, Chairman.
ANGUS S. HIBBARD, Secretary.

20,000 nonpartisans are expected to march. Buffalo will be glad to take some less pretentious recognition of the preparedness day if other cities agree to do the same.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Hartford may decide on Friday night to have a preparedness parade, perhaps on June 3, but probably at a later date, under the auspices of Bardett camp, Spanish war veterans. A preparedness mass meeting will be held tomorrow evening.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong said: "I have just received notice of the parade, and have not had time to consider it. If the people of Pittsburgh want a parade we will have it, and we will not be outdistanced by any other city."

STRACUSE, N. Y.—Mayor Walter B. Stone said: "America should be prepared against war. I am heartily in favor of the movement for a national demonstration."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—While Mayor Thomas B. Smith could not be reached tonight, city officials declared no action had been taken. Mayor Smith is known to be a strong advocate of preparedness.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Mayor Joseph H. Gainer will probably take affirmative action immediately.

PORTLAND, Me.—Mayor W. G. Chapman said: "I have had no notice. I am, however, in hearty sympathy with any such movement. I will take the matter up."

HOUSTON, Tex.—Houston will join the cities of the nation in a preparedness parade June 3. I am heartily in sympathy with the movement because it will awaken the nation to a sense of its duty," said Mayor Ben Campbell.

RULES MAKERS TO WIELD POWER AT CONVENTION

G. O. P. Program Committee
the "Supreme Court" of Coliseum Meeting.

The Supreme court of the Republican national convention will be the committee on rules and experts who are handling the machinery of the majority that expects to be in power at the Coliseum in devoting the present to picking a committee that knows its business.

This information leaked out from the business offices of the national committee yesterday. Four years ago the committee on credentials was the main chance. This time the ablest politicians in each state delegation are being sought for the rules committee.

It is disclosed that the entire convention program, after the temporary chairman is chosen, will be arranged by the rules committee. Secretary James B. Reynolds disclaimed any responsibility for an "official program" that was discussed.

Committee on Rules Supreme.
"The national committee has made no program," he said, "and, as I understand the situation, the course of the convention will be determined absolutely by the convention itself through the committee on rules."

The committee on rules, it was explained, will have full power to report a rule which would cause the convention to sit continuously during the first day, and, as suggested in the Washington story in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, recommend that the presidential nomination be made immediately and before the adoption of the platform.

It will be within the committee's power also to stipulate the length of the nominating and seconding speeches in behalf of each of the dozen or fifteen candidates for the presidency.

Plan to Divide Time.
Secretary Reynolds made the suggestion that the time might be divided between the different candidates with a recognized spokesman for each candidate in control of his principal's time, following the system pursued in the house of representatives at Washington.

The present list shows fifteen presidential possibilities. Allotting but forty minutes to each speech and all the seconding speeches would make a total of more than ten hours of oratory.

Moreover, the committee on rules, it is expected, will be called upon to set with reference to further reduction of southern states representation, as applying to the national convention of 1920, in so far as it can go in recommending to the new national committee a plan of action in calling the next convention.

Southern States Dispute.
Whether there shall be a further reduction than that enforced by the national committee agreement of 1912 depends entirely upon what is disclosed by the forty-three delegates that will be tried before the national committee and the committee on credentials, and upon the conduct of the southern delegations in this convention, a national leader said. "Undoubtedly there will be an attempt made in the rules committee to have the next call based upon actual Republican votes rather than upon population."

Secretary Reynolds sent notices to all contestants to be in Chicago with their evidence at 10 o'clock a. m. on June 1 prepared to appear before the national committee.

They Saw Saloon Fight.
Eight of the forty men arrested were held in the Desplaines street police station yesterday as witnesses to the labor effort in which Joseph Schultz, a deck hand, was stabbed to death in the saloon, 619 West Madison street, last Wednesday night.

guards hurried babies who had died from their care, and refused to stop the trains long enough to bury them.

SON ASKED TO STAY.

"When the Jews were ordered to leave Smorgon a young man went to the commandant and pleaded to be allowed to remain, as his aged father was too ill and infirm to be moved. The commandant, after a long talk, agreed to let the old man stay. He drew his revolver and shot him. 'There's nothing to hinder your going now,' he said.

"Let nothing hinder you from giving to aid these stricken people. We come to you to give you an opportunity of contributing to the cause of humanity. However large your donation, it is a small donation in dollars when lives of women and children are the purchase."

"We call to you first to give these people bread and second to raise your voice that the Russian government might hear and cease its persecutions, its massacres, its espionage, and false accusations."

MONEY REACHES MARK.
"You may ask does the money you give reach the right people. It does. We know this from our own department of state which has been helpful beyond its best traditions."

Dr. Emil C. Hirsch, who was to have presided at the meeting, was prevented from attending by illness, and his place was taken by Attorney Levy Mayer.

The Rt. Rev. Francis C. Kelley, representing Archbishop Mundelein, Dr. Joseph Lloyd Jones, and William J. Calhoun were the other speakers. Mr. Kelley voiced the sympathy and cooperation of the Catholic faith in aiding in the relief work.

MOOSE AND G.O.P. TO KEEP WATCH ON EACH OTHER

Scouts to Sit in Rivals' Convention and Flash the News.

Progressive scouts will have seats in the Republican convention and Republican scouts will be seated in the Progressive gathering. Private direct telephone wires will connect the stages of the Auditorium and the Coliseum. This was the statement from Progressive headquarters in the Auditorium hotel yesterday.

Both Progressive and Republican leaders know that some sudden movement in one gathering may vitally affect the proceedings of the other and vice versa. Leaders in the two conventions alike will want to know what is happening every minute in the other place and know it quickly.

Plans Openly Made.
Arrangements for seats for the scouts have been made openly by both parties. The telephone connections were originally intended for newspaper correspondents.

A Chicago Progressive said that probably for the first time two big political conventions will meet, "each one to bring on the words of the other."

"It may be," he continued, "that a short message containing perhaps nothing more than the name of a man may be sent from one hall to the other with the effect of changing instantly a set situation of changing perhaps the history of the country."

State Quarters in Auditorium.
Announcement was made that headquarters for each of the forty-eight state delegations will be in the Auditorium hotel, where state chairmen and their lieutenants may be in constant touch with members of the national committee, whose offices will be on the parlor floor.

Oscar King Davis, secretary of the national committee, was detained in New York, but is expected today.

FOR BRANDEIS AND RUBLEE.
Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—President Wilson today called several Democratic senators to the White House to urge them to work for the confirmation of Louis D. Brandeis for associate justice of the Supreme court and to bring about a reconsideration of the vote rejecting George Rublee for membership on the federal trade commission.

Michigan Wilson Elector Now Supporting Colonel.
C. B. Sligh of Grand Rapids Republican elector and Charles E. Ignorance Democratic Platform.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 18.—[Special.]—Charles E. Sligh, a Democrat for many years, former candidate for governor and a presidential elector from the Fifth Michigan congressional district four years ago, has repudiated President Wilson and his party and has taken a stand for Theodore Roosevelt and national preparedness. In explanation Mr. Sligh said:

"President Wilson has repudiated not only this plank, but many other planks in the Democratic platform of four years ago. I do not believe there is any man who is bigger than his party."

Girl Eloped or Was Kidnaped.
Her mother thinks Louise Mancini, 18 years old, of 118 West Erie street, a clerk for the kidnaped. The mother says the girl has been going to cabarets with a Harry Long and a bartender.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Information.]—A Republican Roosevelt league has been organized, of which George von L. Meyer, former secretary of the navy, is chairman, and William Loeb Jr., vice chairman, reached Washington today and created a stir among Republican politicians. It is the third distinct national organization at work to bring about the nomination of Col. Roosevelt for president, the others being the National Progressive party, with George W. Perkins as the directing genius, and the Nonpartisan Roosevelt league.

It is the understanding that the new league's purpose is to enlist the regular Republicans who followed President Taft in 1912 in the Roosevelt get-together movement.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Information.]—A Republican Roosevelt league has been organized, of which George von L. Meyer, former secretary of the navy, is chairman, and William Loeb Jr., vice chairman, reached Washington today and created a stir among Republican politicians. It is the third distinct national organization at work to bring about the nomination of Col. Roosevelt for president, the others being the National Progressive party, with George W. Perkins as the directing genius, and the Nonpartisan Roosevelt league.

It is the understanding that the new league's purpose is to enlist the regular Republicans who followed President Taft in 1912 in the Roosevelt get-together movement.

MICHIGAN WILSON ELECTOR NOW SUPPORTING COLONEL.

C. B. Sligh of Grand Rapids Republican elector and Charles E. Ignorance Democratic Platform.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 18.—[Special.]—Charles E. Sligh, a Democrat for many years, former candidate for governor and a presidential elector from the Fifth Michigan congressional district four years ago, has repudiated President Wilson and his party and has taken a stand for Theodore Roosevelt and national preparedness. In explanation Mr. Sligh said:

"President Wilson has repudiated not only this plank, but many other planks in the Democratic platform of four years ago. I do not believe there is any man who is bigger than his party."

COLONEL FACES A 'HOT' TIME IN DETROIT TODAY

Ford Seeks Meeting, but May Change Mind After Report on Roosevelt Speech.

BY CHARLES N. WHEELER.
Detroit, Mich., May 18.—(Special.)—Henry Ford will have an opportunity tomorrow to shake the hand of Col. Roosevelt. He may not want to after his secretaries report what Mr. Roosevelt has to say to Detroit people in the morning.

The understanding here is that Roosevelt is going to use bare knuckles on the issue of the anti-preparedness propaganda. Mr. Ford may have reason to feel that it would be uncomfortable to go into the face of the colonel after he learns what the colonel thinks of the use to which he is putting his talents.

May Try to Hookle Colonel.
Another disturbing element on the eve of the big "American day" is the open threat tonight of the more radical of the anti-preparedness forces to interfere with tomorrow's demonstration.

Several floats and banners, calculated to offend the Roosevelt forces, are ready to be thrust into the street parade.

Miss Shelley, one of the peace advocates on the Oscar II., who has been proselyting in Chicago recently, declared tonight she would be in the parade tomorrow and would display banners that would be antagonistic to Mr. Roosevelt and his followers.

Meantime Mr. Ford expressed a desire to meet Roosevelt. E. G. Lieboldt, his private secretary, will meet the colonel in the morning and try to arrange a conference with the motor man, either at the Ford plant or at the country home of Ford at Dearborn.

Roosevelt's speech in the morning is merely one incident of a program arranged with the sole purpose of correcting the impression abroad, whatever it may be, that Detroit is made up largely of Ford propagandists.

The day's doing are to be a protest against the country at large signing up the patriotism of Detroit by the Ford rule.

Children to Welcome T. R.
Besides the speechmaking by the colonel, the public schools will be closed and 10,000 children, with flags, will greet the motor president at the review in Grand Circus park in the afternoon. The manufacturing plants of the city will close down early to give the workers an opportunity to participate in the burrah doing.

Thousands of leaflets have been distributed through the city today carrying the colonel's picture and some of the hot shots he has poured into the ranks of the anti-preparedness forces recently.

"The celebration means more than the mere honoring of a former president," said Eugene W. Lewis, member of the executive committee in charge of Detroit's "American day."

"We have endeavored to make his coming to the city a means of impressing on Detroiters the necessity of a deeper and more ardent Americanism."

Detroit has become the mecca of all kinds of faddists, propagandists, and high

THE OFFICIAL SUFFRAGE HAT

The Type of Bonnet Which the Marchers Are to Wear in the Parade Here.

Here is the parade hat, "guaranteed becoming," which is to be worn by the suffragists in the Chicago march during the Progressive and Republican national conventions. The hat is a white sailor, with a band of broth beggars. Ford has been forced to go into practical imprisonment on his estate at Dearborn. He is guarded from the kale seekers with as much care as John D. Rockefeller. All wires have been cut between his home and town, and even his secretaries dare not disturb him except at certain hours of each day. He is living in regal splendor, and many of his followers look upon him as a sort of king.

A group of the Ford forces had a mass meeting tonight. The speakers were Dr. John Willis Slaughter of London, single taser; Mrs. W. I. Thomas, Chicago, executive secretary of the women's peace party and close friend of Jane Addams; Carl Thompson of Chicago, well known Socialist, and John Steele, president of the Detroit Federation of Labor.

Colonel Off to Detroit.
New York, May 18.—Col. Roosevelt left Oyster Bay today to carry a message of preparedness to the home of Henry Ford, he said. He will speak in Detroit tomorrow morning and doesn't expect to mince any words in telling what he thinks of the automobile king's views.

The trip is undertaken at the request of a number of prominent Detroiters who, the Roosevelt forces here say, were an-

PARADE SLOGAN FOR MARCHERS WILL WIN $25

"Short and Snappy Epigrams"
Must Be Submitted by May 31.

A "slogan contest" was started yesterday at suffrage parade headquarters in the Tower building. To the person who thinks up the best slogan for use in the suffrage parade on June 7 the suffragists will pay $25. There will be twenty-five consolation prizes of $1 each.

The contest will close on Wednesday night, May 31. Managing editors of Chicago daily newspapers will act as judges. Mrs. Paul Welling is chairman of the prize committee, and made the announcement of the contest.

She pointed out that the purpose of the parade is to visualize the demand for equal suffrage, the slogans submitted would be judged by the aptness with which they presented the case of the women.

Short and Snappy.
"We want short, snappy epigrams," she said, "which will show to the delegates at the Republican convention the necessity for giving to every woman in this country the right to vote. We will reprint the prize winning sayings on banners which the women will carry."

The contest is open to both men and women, and there is no limit to the number of slogans each person may submit. No person will be permitted to carry off more than one prize, however.

Study Military Problem.
Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, grand marshal of the parade, and her aids met yesterday with Capt. Charles W. Kayser for instruction in the military features of the parade. Among the women present were Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Murry Nelson, Mrs. Harrison Brown, Mrs. Maud Cain Taylor, Mrs. Charles Merriam, Mrs. Edward Stirling, Mrs. Charles W. Kayser, and Mrs. Robert M. Lovett.

If President Charles Weeghman of the Cubs is willing, a dozen young women from the Congressional union will sell peanuts at the baseball game tomorrow, and in each bag will be a prize. The prize will be a call to the Women's party convention June 5, 6, and 7. A delegation will call on Mr. Weeghman today.

BOOM FOR BAKER ROILS MARSHALL

Vice President Fights Plan to Shelve Him as Wilson Running Mate.

PRESIDENT IS BLAMED.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(Special.)—Vice President Marshall and his friends have become aroused during the last few days, according to reliable information, over an apparent attempt by the administration to shelve Mr. Marshall and bring about the nomination of Secretary of War Baker for vice president.

Mr. Marshall and his friends, particularly Senators Taggart and Kern of Indiana, think he should be renominated as the president's running mate. Democrats in New Jersey and Democrats in Texas, the two states where Wilson is more absolutely in control than anywhere else in the country, have gotten behind Secretary Baker. At no time has the president expressed a desire to have Mr. Marshall renominated or has his administration done anything to indicate it would support Mr. Marshall.

Republicans were getting together today on plans for their campaign to capture both the house and the senate. A special committee, composed of members of the national committee and senators, will be named to look after the senatorial contests in states which the Republicans hope to capture. Also seven subcommittees of the congressional campaign committee will be named to make a more intensive effort to win control of the house by dividing up the country into districts in which a particular subcommittee will have charge of the campaign.

G. O. P. ROW AGAIN WARMS UP
Little Chance for Harmony Between Cook County Factions, Denies Max Says.

Solution of the Republican county committee deadlock is now expected to go over until after the Republican national convention. The chance of an agreement between the three factions is reported to have disappeared yesterday. The county committee is to meet Monday afternoon at Hotel La Salle.

"It is to be a fight to the finish," one Denese spokesman said. "The deeper we get into the details of proposed harmony the further we are from getting any."

"It is a cinch that the city hall will have a complete county ticket, and at least one candidate for the house in each senatorial district. So what's the use of talking about harmony when everybody knows there must be a primary battle in September."

DEMOCRATIC SLOGAN PEACE PROSPERITY, PREPAREDNESS

Chairman of Colorado State Convention Says These Are Paramount Issues of Coming Campaign.

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 18.—The Democratic state convention here today elected four delegates at large to the national convention.

Four district conventions at which eight delegates, including one woman, were chosen, also were held. Mrs. Nancy Kirkland of Denver was elected as delegate from the First congressional district. Delegates at large elected were: Joseph A. Thatcher, Denver; Gerald Hughes, Denver; Alva B. Adams, Pueblo; and George A. West, Durango.

DU PONT BOOM FADES AWAY.

New York, May 18.—(Special.)—The boom for Gen. T. Coleman Du Pont for president is ended hereabouts, apparently. The campaign headquarters are closed and abandoned, and Ormsby McHarg, campaign manager in chief, has departed for Texas.

DUNNE UNDECIDED ABOUT ENTERING GOVERNOR RACE.

Friends See a Chance for Him to Get on Supreme Bench if G. O. F.
Picks Hughes.

Gov. Dunne, just back from Washington, made the definite statement yesterday that he has not determined his course as to his candidacy for renomination.

"I have not made up my mind," Gov. Dunne said at Hotel La Salle, after a consultation with William L. O'Connell, chairman of the state public utilities commission. "I shall not decide and I shall make no announcement until after the national conventions are well out of the way."

One view of the situation is that Justice Hughes may become Republican nominee for president and vacate the Supreme bench. In such an event it is said to be certain that Senator Lewis and the governor's other friends will go the limit in urging the appointment of Dunne.

July 15 is the first day for filing nominations for governor and other state officers, members of congress, and the state legislature.

Hearing is believing!

THAT is the one proof—the final test of the qualities of a musical instrument. And measured by that test, the Columbia Grafonola superbly proves its right to the title of "The One Incomparable Instrument of Music."

TO HEAR it is to feel the thrill of absolute reality. Its tone is so pure, crystal-clear, and flawlessly true to life that it well-nigh makes the hearer forget the presence of an instrument.

TO HEAR it play a delicate, airy bit of chamber-music, then a tremendous orchestral symphony, is to gain a new conception of its marvelous range and power. No detail or shading of a theme is lost, and the peculiar tones of all instruments are returned with the musical values unaltered.

TO HEAR it with critical appreciation of its musical possibilities is truly to feel convinced that art and science could hardly go further in the reproduction of musical sound.

"Hearing is Believing." Put the Columbia Grafonola to the final test today. There is a Columbia dealer near you who will gladly arrange a demonstration.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

ALICE IN BLUNDERLAND.
"I have looked on with amazement," said Senator Lodge, "at the votes of the American house of representatives on the army bill in the present condition of the country."

Congress, as at least Senator Lodge perceives, has been an astonishing body. We did not know whether it seems as amazing from the inside as it seems from the outside, but the senator says it does.

During Mr. Wilson's administration the United States has had to employ its armed forces twice in Mexico, has offered Germany the choice of war or peace, and has had the choice of war or peace offered it by Japan.

During this time it has had as president a scholar who tells the people they are in danger, but who does nothing but talk about it. It has had, part of the time, as secretary of state a gentleman who believes that love can and will settle any international dispute. It has had as secretary of the navy a gentleman who believes that the navy should be a floating high school. It has had as secretary of war a gentleman who expressed his opinion of the government by resigning in disgust.

Mr. Bryan's idea of being secretary of state was to fill the representatives of foreign nations full of grape juice and read the "Prince of Peace" to them. Mr. Daniels' idea of running the navy is to make it a cheerful school and see that the boys all use their hankies. Mr. Wilson's idea of being president is to knock some one down for a soulful purpose without taking care to see whether the fellow would fall if he hit him. Mr. Garrison's idea of being secretary of war was to resign.

That has been our administrative government. Our legislative government has been dominated by men who want $20,000,000 appropriated for a Muscle Shoals power and nitrate plant, $42,000,000 spent for rivers and harbors improvement, half waste, and $5,000,000 spent on land reclamation under the guise of flood control.

Because they want and will have these and other wastes of money ordered, they will not attend to the national needs which, unattended to, become national dangers. They are afraid to take what they want and also give the nation what it needs because even in a country so rich as the United States the total expenditure would mean increases in taxation which the citizens would feel. That would cause indignation and have political consequences.

Therefore congress denies the nation adequate defenses and takes full weight of pork. These influences can be understood, but it still remains incomprehensible that congress will yield so completely to them, or that the nation, seeing what happens, will tolerate it.

The congress which has been trying to make the worst possible muddle of defense plans is the congress which has just accepted Japanese dictation as to how the United States shall regulate immigration into this country.

Upon the question of determining what peoples may be admitted to the United States congress has taken the advice and suggestion of the imperial Japanese government. It had to take dictation in this form. If it had not taken it there would have been war. Japan does not offer its advice to foreign governments unless and until it is prepared to see that the advice is taken.

Japan would not have told congress what to do unless Japan had intended that congress should do it. Congress had to add this humiliation to its record because of the things it has not done and will not do.

A great many people with Senator Lodge must look with amazement. Japan is outbidding our navy. In a few years, if we have more of Daniels and the present congress, the entire American fleet is stationed in Asiatic waters and will not be equal to an engagement with the Japanese. The first act of the Democratic government was to cut the ship-building program in two. Japan speeded up. The United States slowed down. It thereby invited Japanese aggression.

It is incredible. It is incredible that the nation tolerates it. An administration wandering around with ideas of brotherly love and humanity and of knocking people down for their moral good, and a congress eating its way through the pork barrel; an administration delaying the construction of battle-ships and a congress refusing to authorize the construction of even one of them; an administration telling the people that they may wake up some morning and find themselves in trouble and a congress taking money away from defense and putting it into political objects. It certainly is incredible.

The chairman of the house committee on military affairs a man who does not believe in an army, the head of the navy department a man who does not believe in a navy, the present secretary of the army a man recently converted from pacifism, the speaker of the house of representatives a man who thinks a million armed men would spring from the soil, the president a man who wants the biggest navy in the world and may not see one ship authorized during his administration; all this by the end of his administration.

Coast guards taken away because we are trying to catch a Mexican outlaw; Japan threatening us and we threatening Germany; the world at war, and the United States piling up nothing but money and emitties; the president merely talking, and congress merely fattening.

It is Alice in Blunderland.
A DEMOCRATIC ARMY.
The incident at the ball given by the Army and Navy club recently in which a noncommissioned officer who had taken his wife there was reported to his colonel for speaking to her may not have been true. But most Americans will be ready to believe it. Such things are traditional, if not in the national guard, at least in the regular army.

Probably social distinctions between officers and enlisted men are necessary to the discipline of the professional United States army. Army men say so, at any rate, and they have had experience. However necessary it may be, it is one of the reasons, perhaps the most important reason, why army service is thought of as intolerable by most Americans. But if social distinctions are necessary in a professional army, it is not necessary in a democratic army created by universal service.

We doubt whether it is even possible, for the whole problem is in fact avoided by universal service.

No man in the first place is born to a commission. He gets one by working up to it. And few if any of the private soldiers would be professional soldiers whose social position could be determined by their position in the service. With most of them their position, and the social position of their wives in case they had them, would be determined by their success in civilian life afterward.

Because in universal service the privates would be boys and the officers chiefly men the discipline would be no more galling or intolerable than the discipline now enforced in school and college. The professor or the college president does not have to use caste to reinforce his authority. His seniority, his position, and his knowledge give him all necessary authority.

Caste in a professional army may be difficult to dispense with: in a democratic army of all the people it would be the hardest possible thing to create. There is good reason to believe also that it would run out some of the class distinctions of civil life also.

SPOILSMEN.
Just one conclusion may be drawn from the passage of the so-called flood control bill in the house of representatives. It is that the Democratic leaders in the house are spoliemen of the most unscrupulous kind. Congressman Humphreys, whose political god is Pork, found a new way of getting money out of the treasury, and the Democratic leaders cracked their heels together with joy and went to it. There was not even the pretense of decent deliberation. The bill was forced through, and those who voted for it were saved from going on record.

The flood control bill is so named because the ostensible purpose is to protect property in the southern states from floods by building, as the statute, $45,000,000 worth of levees. But the intent of the bill is not flood control. It is reclamation with federal money of 16,000,000 acres of river land. The land is practically worthless now. It will be worth more than a hundred dollars an acre reclaimed. It is owned, not by the government, but by private persons and syndicates.

If it had been the honest purpose of Mr. Humphreys and Mr. Clark to control floods, the bill would never have been proposed. It is more than possible that building levees is not the way to do so. Engineers and students of rivers are uncertain. It is certain, however, that levees often aggravate floods. By narrowing rivers, they make the rivers higher and swifter. The same amount of water must course in a smaller channel.

Flood control is one of the problems the United States must solve. But it cannot be solved on the Mississippi, or any other river, by spending money on reclamation of river bottoms. It must be studied, and studied by experts, before any hope of solution can be offered. The forty-five millions are not being spent for flood prevention, but for control of votes, and for the enrichment of private citizens in a few states at the expense of the United States.

The bill must be defeated in the senate.
POLITICAL GESTURING.
President Wilson is godfather to the Alexander shipping bill, which is coming before the house of representatives for a vote this afternoon. He is godfather of it because there has been through out the country a growing conviction that we should have an American merchant marine.

If the Alexander bill were an honest bill, one based on the actual needs of our merchant marine, no one could do otherwise than applaud the president's support of it. Unfortunately this particular godchild of the president cannot even be expected to fulfill its promises. It is a bill dictated by a landman's theory of what a shipping bill ought to be; but men of practical experience in international shipping declare that it will not settle any of their problems or help them in any way to overcome the furious competition between them and their foreign rivals.

All the Alexander bill proposes to do is to make a kind of ship broker out of the United States government. It is to buy ships and sell or rent them for use under the American flag. If it rents them or sells them, below market price, that is a subsidy to ship owners of a very roundabout way. If it rents or sells them at market price that is no help at all to the American merchant marine.

Private capital will build up an American merchant marine when it is profitable to do so. It has been unprofitable to go into American shipping for two reasons in the past: that American shipyards build ships extravagantly, and that United States regulations on American shipping have been almost prohibitive. The Alexander bill meets neither of these fundamental conditions.

It is a political measure, calculated to make a political impression. Outside of politics it is merely a series of gestures, futile and barren.

Editorial of the Day.

AN OUTRAGE ON AMERICAN TAXPAYERS.
(From the Philadelphia Inquirer.)

It is reported from Washington that Congressmen Tamm and Johnson have used his official frank to send through the mails more than 2,000,000 copies of speeches, the printing of which has been paid for by Mr. Ford. Also it is stated that twenty-five senators and representatives have done the same thing. Incidentally we are told that the rooms of the house committee on investigation of the expenditures of the postoffice department have been turned over to the Ford peace propagandists.

If these statements are true, then the whole business is a gross injustice to and an outrage upon the taxpayers of this country. The most galling part of it all is that this gross waste of the people's money is being made with the consent of the men who were sent to Washington for the purpose of looking after the interests of the taxpayers.

The character of the propaganda which is being conducted by means of congressional frank has nothing to do with the case. Whether it is for peace at any price or for propaganda, the abuse is one that should not be tolerated, and it is to be hoped that some member of the house may make it his business to ascertain the facts in the case and, if they are as stated, to take immediate steps to bring this unwarranted and wasteful use of the people's money to an end. Possibly, and, indeed, quite probably, it is being done under cover of law. If so, the law needs amendment.

It would be a blessing in disguise if this particular instance should be the means of putting an end to the whole franking abuse.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO.
Motto: How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.
RECIPE.
Do quipsters, 'twas truly said,
Non desistantur est;
To seek a quip to suit all minds
Would be a futile quest.

The donkey, father and two sons
Of Xanthus' well known tale,
Illustrate well concretely how
Such efforts always fail.

So, Mr. Line o' Type or Two,
I humbly would suggest
That quips which touch your funny bone,
Will suit your readers best.

J. W. C.
It is suggested by Old Bill Byrne that for one day we lay aside the hammer—padded and unpadding, tack and adage—and publish a Sunshine Column, speaking kindly of proffessors, compilers, presidents, Germans, and other members of the so-called human race. The suggestion has our approval, as we welcome any excuse to say a good word for the race, ind. and coll.; therefore we set aside June 2 as the date. Contributions should get busy on sunshine stuff, and send it in before the end of the merry, though glib, month of May.

YET SOME FOLKS, ETC.

A bargain.—Waverley light car, four-cylinder, 10-12 h. p., two-seater, 40 miles to gallon, three guineas tax, lady driver, recently overhauled, 1915.—Apply, 55 Highbury Street, Portmouth.

"Bargain" is a modest description. We wonder the advertiser did not add—"Lady alone worth the money."

"THERE are a lot of things that women cannot do," says Editor Miller of the Washington, D. C., Democrat, touching on suffrage. Well, what are they? Let's make a list of the "lot of things" woman cannot do which man can. Guess we'd not have to turn a column with the list.

Concerning Lord Bateman.
Sir: From the introduction to "A Collection of Ballads" edited by Andrew Lang:
"No ballad has a stranger history than 'The Loving Ballad of Lord Bateman.' Illustrated by the pencils of Cruikshank and Thackeray. Their form is a ludicrous cockney perversion, but it retains the essence. Bateman, a captive of 'this Turk' is beloved by the Turk's daughter (a staple incident of old French romance), and by her released. The lady after seven years rejoins Lord Bateman: he has just married a local bride, but 'orders another marriage,' and sends home his bride 'in a coach and three.' This incident is stereotyped in the ballads.

"Now Lord Bateman is Young Bekie in the Scotch ballads, who becomes Young Bekiehan, Young Bekiehan, and so forth, and his adventures identical with those of Lord Bateman, though the proud porter in the Scotch version is scarcely so prominent and illustrious. As Motherwell saw, Bekie (Belchan, Buchan, Bateman) is really Becket, Gilbert Becket, father of Thomas of Canterbury. Every one has heard how HIS Saracen bride sought him in London. The legend of the disavowed marriage is from the common stock of ballad lore.

WE have owned for years four volumes of ancient ballads, and "Lord Bekiehan" is among them; but the version we are after begins—"Lord Bateman was a noble lord, And he determined to go abroad, To go strange countries far to see."

WHEN an Englishman is sentimental, observes Mr. Shaw in "John Bull's Other Island," he acts like an Irishman who is drunk. Applying the reverse English, when an Irishman is sentimental that extravagance is he not capable of? Casement is a sentimentalist.

NEARER THE LINE.
MY Battle Creek days were full laden with pleasure
Until a conviction assailed me and grew,
That I should know joy in a much greater measure
If I could be nearer your Ring-tailed Review.

Obsessed with this dream, my blood-pressure heightened,
The breakfast food fancies no longer were mine,
My hours of depression no ray of joy brightened,
I felt I was living too far from the Line.

I yearned day by day for the Trib's mail edition,
Your Column of Letters seemed too long delayed,
The slow moving trains I consigned to perdition,
The postoffice force to the Stygian shade.

At last to obtain the Nepenthe I banked,
To forestall an imminent nervous decline,
I left the calm harbor where I had been anchored,
To move to Chicago to be near the Line.

And now the days pass in ecstatic rhythm,
I'm chewing the lotus of long deferred hope,
The shadows dissolve; my troubles go with them
As I read before breakfast your Daybook of Dope.

No waiting, no yearning, the sad hours are over,
The world was along by some jocular design,
Each morning by daybreak I'm knee deep in clover—
I've come to Chicago to be near the Line.

SEPTIC SORE THROAT.
The important subject of septic sore throat, and particularly its method of spreading, Krumwiede and Valentine (Journal Medical Research, 1915, 2:21) contribute some valuable information.

They studied an epidemic in a town of 5,000 inhabitants. The proof that the disease was milk-borne was incontrovertible. The question, then, was: How did the milk become infected? The conclusion was that the milk was infected by streptococci from the throats of infected persons and not from cows with mastitis. When human streptococci are found in the udders of cows with mastitis they are most likely secondary agents in an already existing inflammation.

The conclusions are based upon bacteriological studies. The practical point made by this study, at least for the health officer and practicing physician, is that in tracing the source of an epidemic of septic sore throat attention must be centered on cases of sore throat in human beings and not on mastitis in cows. This opinion is concurred in by E. R. Kelley (American Journal of Public Health, January, 1916, p. 10).

Most cases of health include septic sore throat among the reportable diseases. Physicians are often at sea as to what constitutes septic sore throat. The disease begins with sore throat, high fever, general aching pains and headache. On inspection white spots are found on the tonsils. But scarlet fever, ordinary tonsillitis, and, to a degree, diphtheria begin in the same way. Cultures will differentiate diphtheria. But neither anemias nor cultures furnish a satisfactory method of differentiating scarlet fever and ordinary tonsillitis from septic sore throat. He suggests two diagnostic points.

In septic sore throat there is great prostration and great tendency to abscess complications. The attending physician should suspect septic sore throat if, in addition to the fever, aches and sore throat, there is profound prostration, and if the laboratory report is that diphtheria bacilli are absent, streptococci are present, and that the throat is covered with a thick, white, cheesy exudate. If the condition seems to be epidemic, and particularly if the cases are developing along a milk route, the diagnosis is septic sore throat.

He quotes Hamburger (Johns Hopkins Bulletin) as follows: (1) Whenever there is an undue prevalence of sore throat among a physician's patients or in a community, the physician should report each case of sore throat, regardless of its type. Health departments should always take cognizance of the presence of sore throat in unusual numbers and modify their procedure to get the then existing conditions. (2) When streptococcal infection is introduced into a community through milk it is extremely virulent. (3) Raw milk from any dairy, if not carefully produced, handled, is likely to cause an epidemic of septic sore throat.

TO GET WATER ANALYZED.
Mrs. H. R. E. writes: "Where can I send water to have it analyzed?"
REPLY.
The laboratory of the state board of health, first, write them telling them you want a sanitary analysis of the water you use. Tell them why you want such information as you can about the location of the well, especially as to stables and privies, the depth of the well, how it is cased, how covered, and whether surface and deep water get into it. They will send you instructions for taking water for analysis.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY
(Copyright, 1916, By the Brewster Company.)

WHENEVER any popular rising has taken place in the history of the first object of the insurgents or rioters, as the case may be, is to seize the castle as the virtual seat and headquarters of government in the Kingdom. Robert Emmet, it may be remembered, was captured on the subject of an abortive attempt to possess himself of the castle. The latest revolt has proved no exception to the rule in this respect, and, as in every other instance of an attack on the gloomy old pile in its history of seven centuries or more, it has escaped capture.

It shows poor judgment on the part of the leaders of the recent rising that they should not have concentrated their efforts upon the seizure of the castle, which was in their hands prepared for any trouble and was bound to be unique and of which the capture would have been a great triumph. For if it had become known throughout Ireland that Dublin castle, which put the signatures to the proclamation of the republic in the name of the British monarch, had been captured, the moral effect throughout the length and breadth of the Emerald Isle would have been very great and would have rendered the insurrection far more difficult to suppress.

Situated on an eminence and occupying about an acre of ground, the castle, dining with the date from 1200, its foundations were laid by Henri de Louth. Its first royal occupant was King John, who spent a week there in August, 1210. Two hundred years later Richard II. resided nine months at the castle, and, as it was he with the city that he pursued there six years afterwards, Cromwell made the castle his headquarters in 1649, and forty years later King James II. took up his residence there and remained there until after his defeat at the battle of the Boyne, when his Dutch son-in-law, William III., established himself at the castle in his stead.

After another 120 years elapsed before Ireland got another glimpse of the sovereign, when she was visited by George IV., who made his headquarters at Vice-regal lodge, Phoenix park, but the court at Dublin castle. Queen Victoria was at Dublin on four different occasions prior to the death of her husband, her first state visit taking place in 1840. On each of these occasions she held court in Dublin castle. But when she returned as a widow a few years before her death she kept away from the castle.

Edward VII. during his nine years' reign paid one state visit to Dublin, making his headquarters at Vice-regal lodge, but giving entertainments at the castle, and the same practice was followed by George V. and Queen Mary when they were in Ireland in 1911.

The castle, while interesting historically, is extremely unattractive architecturally and has been the official residence of the various governors general, lord lieutenants, and viceroys of Ireland ever since the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Prior to that time it was the chief fortress and stronghold of the city. Formerly all the various departments of the government were housed in the castle, and although most of them have been scattered in other parts of the metropolis, yet the castle has for hundreds of years been identified in the minds of the Irish people throughout the world as the symbol and center of everything that has been evil and good in Great Britain's association with the Emerald Isle.

The stories widely published on this side of the Atlantic that the alliance of Great Britain with Japan was the result of the capture of the castle by the Japanese, is a pure invention.

REBATE ON HAYES STREET PAVING.
Chicago, May 17.—[To the Friend of the People.]—It was seven years ago last fall since they paved Hayes street, between Kimball avenue and Ballou street. The writer would like to know if a rebate will be issued, and if so when the same will be ready for payment.

MUST PROVIDE REFUSE RECEPTACLES.
Chicago, May 16.—[To the Friend of the People.]—For the last year the alley and space under the elevated structure east of Kedzie avenue, and between Harrison and Flournoy streets, has been used as a dump for all manner of rubbish, especially for garbage. Some of the tenants residing in Flournoy street near the place mentioned have no suitable place garbage cans and some none at all. Can you help to remedy this evil?

DIVORCE AND REMARRIAGE.
Chicago, May 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man married in the state of New York in 1909 and lived with his wife one month. The young man was 19 years of age and the girl 18. Their trouble was brought up in court. He left thinking he was a divorced man. In 1912 he married in Chicago. In a paper dated last month he read that his former wife has just had her marriage annulled this year. Is his marriage to his second wife legal or would it be advisable to remarry? Would it be necessary to procure another license and if so should the girl use her maiden name or her marriage name?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.
IMPERMEABILITY OF THE MASS.
Boone, Ill., May 18.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—I have read your editorials with great satisfaction and can no longer refrain from telling you how good they seem to me. I was wondering if the inertia and impermeability of what the professors call the "common apprehensive mass" did not oppress you with a feeling of "what's the use of any writing?" when you wrote the article "The Lords of Misrule." So I know you do have moments of discouragement. But keep it up.

FLAWS IN HIS LOGIC.
Chicago, May 15.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—The argument of Mr. Herrick's "Logic" article is brought to a climax with the sentence: "There is, in theory and in fact, some alternative to the hunger driven German, while to the torpedoed traveler there is no alternative." Either Mr. Herrick has a poor conception of the mental capacities of the readers of THE TRIBUNE or he is oblivious of the fact that it is only a short step from the tragedy to the ridiculous.

CONTRIBUTION TO MORAL THOUGHT OF THE FUTURE.
Woodstock, N. Y., May 14.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—I have ordered a number of copies of THE TRIBUNE of May 2, which contains your editorial on Americanism. I wish to send it to some of my nearest neighbors who are not too far gone. Unfortunately, many are insane past recovery. I believe that your series of editorials on the relations between America and the warring nations, and on Americanism, have been the most powerful and principal independent contribution made by America during the war to the moral thought of the future—if indeed there is to be an American future.

DOUBLE FACED.
Chicago, May 15.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—Mr. McCutcheon's cartoon, "The Double Standard," illustrates the illogical, unneutral, un-American and inconsistent position of the present administration better than columns of the most forceful editorials could. Only the title would have been more suitable of the situation and the vacillating man if it had read "Double Faced" instead of "Double Standard."

THE ONLY WAY TO STOP THE GIVE US BUSSES.
Chicago, May 15.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—Now, this is the gist of my story. The point of the allegory. The Boulevard Bus would make our front yard.

QUACK DENTISTS.
Chicago, May 15.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—I note with great satisfaction your campaign against quack dentists. May you succeed as well as or even better than you did with the quack medicines in my article. I have great faith and hope in Dr. West and Seltzer and know they will be able to drive you well. I hope you may ever drive out a lot of the quack dentists yet deliver no better work to their patients than the quack work mentioned in this morning's article.

CALL SHIP BILL POLITICAL CLUB; FIGHT IN VAIN

Republicans Have Satisfaction of Rapping Redfield and Daniels.

BY MARK S. WATSON.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(Special.)—A vigorous attack on the administration's merchant marine bill, termed a political club instead of a law to help the shipping trade, was made today, but the majority vote of congress continued to make the opposition unavailing.

The only satisfaction offered the Republicans was that of registering their opinion of Secretary of Commerce Redfield and Secretary of the Navy Daniels, whom the bill would place on the commission. The opinions were not favorable.

"It is absurd to think that members of the cabinet who are allowed to be on the shipping board would not be influenced by their cabinet relations," said Representative Humphrey of Washington. "They want us to have more confidence in them than they have in each other."

Too Bad to Bar Wise Man.

"But it would indeed be too bad to bar from the board the secretary of commerce who has told us repeatedly over and over again that he knows more about shipping than any one else in the United States or Europe either—and not only about shipping, but about everything else in the business world."

"Did he prove it?" interrupted former Speaker Cannon.

"He admitted it," replied Humphrey. "And one of the greatest reasons for passing this bill apparently is to give him a chance to spend $50,000,000 and demonstrate that no one else in the world can spend it as wisely as he can."

Representative Turner of Iowa asserted it ought to be impossible for any cabinet member, necessarily a political apologist, to sit on a board theoretically concerned only with the nation's business.

"The presence of these cabinet members," he said, "would not only injure, but would disparage every act. It would subject them to the criticism of acting for political motives and would subject the whole commission to the charge of being actuated by politics, even when this might not be true."

Close Vote on Amendment.

The political peril in such a board, making it likely that the administration would have five out of the seven members and never less than four, two of whom would owe their first duty to the administration, produced a close vote on the motion for amendment. It was voted down by 42 to 41, the house sitting as committee of the whole. The other amendments presented thus far were killed with less ceremony.

The rule adopted the other day makes it impossible for the minority to argue any of its proposed amendments after 4 p. m. tomorrow. This means that the bill is supposedly sure to pass the house by tomorrow night, only to encounter a sure dangerous opposition in the senate, where debate will be possible and where a most spirited fight will be made on the government ownership feature of the measure.

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS JOIN FIGHT ON PORK BARREL BILL.

Sen. Lewis May Help Defeat Grab Measure, Although Anxious for Rule of Waterway Provision.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(Special.)—A material reduction in the $42,000,000 river and harbor pork barrel bill was indicated in the senate today when several Democratic senators announced opposition to the measure.

Senator Thomas of Colorado, a Democrat, opened fire on the pork barrel today. Senator Hastings of Wisconsin, another Democrat, served notice he would oppose it tomorrow, and Senator Tillman of South Carolina, also a Democrat, expects to do likewise Saturday or Monday. In addition, Senator Lewis of Illinois, who has been flirting with the pork barrel crowd in the interest of the Illinois waterway, said he would be compelled to vote against many items in the measure.

One Senator Clarke of Arkansas, chairman of the committee in charge of the bill, and other pork barrel advocates served notice they would ask for night sessions in order to hasten the passage of the measure.

McAdoo's Figures Surprise Congress at Lowness—Wilson Has Plan to Raise It.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Secretary McAdoo today submitted to Chairman Kitchin of the house ways and means committee, and Chairman Simmons of the senate finance committee, revised estimates of the government's receipts and expenditures for the remainder of the current fiscal year and the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917.

Only about $150,000,000 in additional revenue will have to be provided during the coming year, Mr. McAdoo said. This is less by $75,000,000 than the most conservative members of congress calculated at the outset of the session would be needed. All of the additional revenue will come from taxes on incomes, inheritances, and munitions in accordance with a plan approved last week by President Wilson.

It is probable that all of the revenue measures, including provision for preparedness revenues, a tariff commission, and the encouragement of the dyestuffs industry, will be included in an omnibus bill. The president is understood to favor that plan.

OHIO LAWMAKER CITES WRECK OF U. S. MERIT IDEA

Representative Fess Charges
Wilson Regime Has Substituted Spoils Politics.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(Special.)—Charges that the Democratic party under the Wilson administration has wrecked the merit system of government service and prostituted the federal civil service commission to the demands of spoils politics were made in the house today by Representative Fess of Ohio.

"During the years from 1883 to 1913," Mr. Fess said, "the civil service commission gained a real place as one of the government's bureaus."

"The present administration must be judged by the record it makes. Up to date its record on the civil service is as follows:

"June 23, 1913—Technical services in the office of the supervising architect in connection with plans, specifications, and construction of the central heating plant, exempted from the classified service. This was a rider on an appropriation bill.

"Oct. 3, 1913—Agents, deputy collectors, inspectors, and other employees in connection with the income tax are exempted from civil service rules.

"July 16, 1914—Commercial attachés, department of commerce, exempted from regulations of the merit system. This was a rider to an appropriation bill.

"Aug. 1, 1915—Commissioner to five civilized tribes taken out of the civil service regulations by a rider to an appropriation bill.

"Jan. 28, 1916—Life saving service made a part of the military force by including in the coast guard. This was not an objectionable change."

Before it is Too Late?

Every business man, every buyer, every housewife, knows how rapidly prices are rising. In all that goes to the making of books, this rise has been especially marked.

Many kinds of paper have doubled. Some kinds of ink have gone up even more. Some kinds of leather—as, for example, the morocco used for one of the most popular bindings of the Encyclopaedia Britannica—are now almost unobtainable. Even the paper boards used in binding having increased 50%.

One result of this increase is that we can obtain no more sets of the "Handy Volume" Issue of the Britannica at anything like present costs. After the number contracted for before the war began is exhausted we shall be able to continue the sale only if we increase the prices from $11 for the cheapest binding to $19 for the most expensive. And there is no certainty that we can obtain any large number even at these higher prices.

Sets now on hand are going rapidly. In some of the bindings only a small number now remain.

If you do not order your set of the Britannica now, it will cost you a great deal more later; and you may have to wait a good while for it.

The New Way

With the remarkable offer which we make you cannot go wrong in sending your order now. If the books are not exactly what you want, if for any reason whatsoever you want to send them back, we will refund your money and the shipping charges both ways.

You take no risk —we take it all!

Some people were born to hesitate. They just can't make up their minds. Get out of this class! Here is an opportunity to have the Encyclopaedia Britannica in your own home, take the volumes out of their wrappers, use them, read them for three whole weeks and learn how valuable and interesting they may be to you and to all your family.

'SHOW ME PROOF,' GERMAK DEMANDS OF MRS. MERRIAM

Women Twice Rebuffed Before
Council Committee on Licenses.

Women assailants of the dance halls were rebuffed twice yesterday before the council committee on licenses.

The first hearing on the Prohibition ordinance to divorce dancing and drinking was in progress.

"The brewers are back of the United Societies," said Mrs. C. E. Merriam, wife of the alderman.

"That is untrue," said A. J. Cermak, secretary of the United Societies.

"They are paying for the rent of the offices occupied by the headquarters of the United Societies," said Mrs. Merriam.

Cermak Gives Challenge.

"That is an untruth," answered Cermak, "and I challenge you to show me the proof of it."

"Then why is it," she asked, "that certain organizations get special bar permits over our protest? I have been trying to prevent the issuance of a permit to the Shamrock club, whose dance last year was a disgrace, but I am informed the brewers have said they will see to it the permit is issued."

The meeting then broke up in adjournment.

Brewers were introduced showing that policemen assigned to the dance halls condemned by the Women's Church Federation denied flatly the charges of disorder and licentiousness contained in the affidavit presented to Mayor Thompson by the organization. One of the sworn statements bluntly contradicted what was made by Mrs. G. M. Matthes, head of the federation.

Mrs. Matthes swore she saw fights in a dance given on April 20 at the Liberty hall, 8000 South Union avenue, which were only stopped by the club of a policeman; that she saw two drunken men carried out; that three drunken men lay on the floor; that one girl was in hysterics; and that the drunkenness increased from midnight until daylight.

Danced with Her Aunt.

The police report, signed by Patrolman John Stokes, read in part:

"Everything was orderly with the exception of the fact that a few rowdy fellows came into the hall and were ejected by the order of the club members."

Stokes said he observed no obscenity and that the girl Mrs. Matthes said was in hysterics drank nothing and danced with nobody but her aunt.

GAS TESTERS FIND SLIGHT

121 Cases Out of 244 Below 25
Candle Power Required by City.
Against 25 Per Cent in March.

2024 tests of the quality of gas made by the department of public service in 1915 showed that the gas was 121 cases out of 244 below 25 candle power required by city ordinance. A report on the subject was submitted to the city and electric light committee yesterday.

On March 25 per cent of tests showed improvement in the report, it is due to the better gas furnished on the south side and a slight improvement on the west side.

There was no improvement on the north side and almost daily violations were noted, this report states.

Children of Late George B. Havill Say Stepmother Was Not Legal Wife of Their Father.

The fight for possession of the late George B. Havill's estate, in which the children are attempting to prove their father was a bigamist and their stepmother, Mrs. Theresa E. Havill, not his legal wife, took another turn yesterday when Mrs. Havill attempted to prove George Havill Jr. no blood kin of George B. Havill, but a child taken from a Canadian orphanage.

Several witnesses testified that George Havill and the testator, whose will the children are seeking to have set aside, always conducted themselves as father and son.

Ald. J. J. Coughlin is expected to give the same testimony at the resumption of the hearing today.

Y., and had been living at the Hartman home. The girl and her mother begged in vain for his release.

MAYOR MAY ACT TO SHUT SALOONS IN COLLEGE ZONE

He's Considering Ordering a Survey to Learn Devon Avenue Status.

Mayor Thompson may order a survey to determine the southern boundary of the four mile prohibition zone around Northwestern university. If such a survey is made, he will close any saloons within the dry belt.

Mayor Thompson made this statement yesterday in the same quiet manner that he told THE TRIBUNE last September he was considering whether he should enforce the Sunday closing law. The publication of the former interview was received with incredulity, but on Oct. 4 he sent to the council the announcement of his order for the enforcement of the law.

22 Saloons Endangered.

There are twenty-nine saloons in the Devon avenue territory which anti-saloon organizations charge are within the four mile district established by the charter of the university in 1853. Many of them have been there for more than twenty years.

Mayor Thompson was told that during his absence in St. Louis City Clerk Simon, until he was told he was exceeding his authority, held up the issuance of eight licenses challenged by the Chicago Law and Order league. "And Ald. Captain wrote you a letter asking if you would not meet the expense of a survey of your contingent fund," was added.

"Yes," he laughed, "they all want to tap the contingent fund."

"Ald. Merriam during the council meeting suggested that all that would be necessary to determine the four mile line would be to order a couple of surveys to make a survey," was another indirect question.

The Law Is the Law.

"I think that's right," he said. "That's all that would be necessary to determine whether those licenses are legal. If they are not they ought to be revoked. Right is right and the law is the law. It's about time this question was settled."

"I shall consult with the corporation counsel and the commissioner of public works. There's no use fooling with it in this way."

The mayor also said he had felt the council was responsible for a part of the situation because of its power to vote the money for the survey. An appropriation of $250 for that purpose recently was voted down.

The mayor revoked the licenses of two saloons, sent notices to five others to appear in his office this morning and show cause why their licenses should not be revoked, and restored three licenses revoked recently.

He closed the saloons of Louis Wadrian, 4400 Lincoln avenue, because of repeated violations of the Sunday closing law, and that of Wm. Narsenich, 8022 the Strand, because of an attack on a woman in Narsenich's presence.

PRESIDENT MOHLER QUILTS UNION PACIFIC LEADERSHIP

Retires July 1, but Will Act in Advisory Capacity—Fall on Ice Partly the Cause.

Omaha, Neb., May 18.—The resignation of A. L. Mohler as president of the Union Pacific railroad and the Oregon Short Line railroad, effective July 1, was announced here tonight.

No reasons were given, and railroad officials would not discuss Mr. Mohler's action, but from sources in close touch with Mr. Mohler it was learned he had been in ill health for several months, following a fall while skating at a municipal park in this city last winter.

The announcement says: "Mr. Mohler announces that he has decided to retire as president of the Union Pacific railroad and the Oregon Short Line Railroad company on July 1, but will be identified with these companies in an advisory capacity."

Regarding YOUR SUMMER TRIP

THOUSANDS who have spent their vacations in the east will go again this year. And those who have never been to Niagara, down the St. Lawrence, through Canada, to Boston, New York, Atlantic City, etc., have determined to go this year. The East and Canada are "in the air." Indications have never been so marked and so early of a tremendous volume of resort traffic toward the Atlantic.

And so the Grand Trunk Railway System, the tourist route through Canada and via Niagara Falls and the beautiful Lehigh Valley, desires to get in early touch with those who intend to take these trips, because we know we "have the goods" and can give you an outing, at moderate expense, over which you will be enthusiastic.

Circle Tours Most Popular

We want to speak, especially of our circle tours—our great, popular innovation by which you may go one route and return another, diversifying by rail and water, with free stop-over privileges. These please every time.

At very moderate cost, say $41.40, you can go through cool Michigan to Detroit or Port Huron, then Toronto, then Kingston, take a steamer through the Thousand Islands and the rapids of the St. Lawrence River to Montreal, thence through New England to Boston, then steamer to New York, up through the picturesque Lehigh Valley, past Mauch Chunk, Watkins Glen, Wilkes-Barre and Lake Seneca—the so-called Switzerland of America—to Niagara Falls and back to Chicago.

Niagara, New York and Virginia

This is one of the most complete tours we have, and for $5 less—$36.40—you can go from Chicago through cool Michigan to Detroit, thence Niagara Falls, then via the wonderfully picturesque Lehigh Valley, through the Switzerland of America to New York, and after seeing the metropolis take the boat to Norfolk and come back through White Sulphur Springs, through mountain scenery, (surpassed only by the Lehigh Valley) to Cincinnati, and return to Chicago.

Or, should you wish a shorter, even less expensive trip—say for $23.30—you can go via the Grand Trunk to Penetang on Georgian Bay, then by steamer to Parry Sound, by Parry Sound Yachting fleet to Rose Point, then Grand Trunk Railway again to Maple Lake, then a wonderful stage drive through the woods of the Canadian Highlands to Port Cockburn or beautiful Rosseau, thence by boat over the famous Muskoka Lakes to Muskoka Wharf and home again via Toronto and the Grand Trunk. This last trip can be made in a week if necessarily hurried, and the entire cost of tickets, meals, berths and all expenses need not exceed $40.00.

Fares and All Conditions Attractive

But the main thing, the point we wish to emphasize is that the Grand Trunk out of Chicago is a great and popular tourist route. We cater to this business because it is one of our principal summer revenue producers and we must make the fares and all conditions attractive. For that reason we are keen to lay our propositions before you. It will really and honestly pay you to see us before deciding on your route. We have the variety there being 75 different trips in our circle tours alone. The time to plan is now and with our co-operation.

Comprehensive Guide Books Free

We have published a complete assortment of illustrated guides quoting fares in detail. We urge you to come in. City Ticket Office, 301 South Clark St., cor Jackson Boulevard. Phone Wabash 1757 and get a set. We would rather have you call, personally, for them, so that any preliminary questions may be answered on the spot; but failing in that you can always address J. D. McDonald, Asst. General Passenger Agent, Merchants Loan & Trust Building, Chicago, who can convince you that our claims as a summer tourist route to the east are not overstated.

AMERICAN BOYS CAUGHT BETWEEN LINES IN SERBIA

Princeton College Men Have a Narrow Escape—Hospital
Workers Leave Country.

This is the fourteenth of a series of articles by Mrs. Mildred Farwell.
Another will appear tomorrow.

BY MILDRED FARWELL.

For four days the only trains passing through Serbia were military ones—moving troops for the Verdun drive, we afterwards learned. Lady Paget, who had not yet turned over her hospital to the Bulgarians, hospitably gave all four of us beds, having seen the effect of the Balkan on the average Anglo-Saxon nerves.

The system, order, and absence of cant of the Paget unit made me believe again in our race. It was the only hospital that had been actually on the field of battle. They had watched from its windows the Serbians and Bulgarians fighting, handing out of them to the retreating Serbian soldiers food and clothing, dragging into the hospital wounded and staggering up to the protection of its doors.

Two of the Americans—Tancock and Logan of Princeton, told me, in gales of laughter, of an experience that at the time must have been far from amusing.

Caught Between Foe's Lines.
We had driven out to meet the incoming Bulgarians," they said, "and as neutrals to ask protection for the hospital. We took some of the civil authorities, looking like a bunch of undertakers, to greet the Bulgarians.

"Just as we reached the line the Bulgarians, thinking our automobiles were a Serbian ruse, began firing on us, and the Serbians fired back. By mistake we had got between the lines.

"The undertakers crawled away on their stomachs and we lay flat on ours. It seemed for hours. There wasn't a ditch or a hollow near. That road held the two flattest neutrals in all Serbia."

"What was the end of the story?" I asked.

"The end of it? Why, the Bulgarian army advanced over our prostrate forms, stopping three times to fire. After they had gone by we picked ourselves up, put some Bulgarian wounded into the Ford that was not hit, and drove back to the hospital.

Curks Throw Flowers.
A crowd of Turks stopped us on the way looking for Serbians to kill. When they saw we had Bulgarians only, they threw flowers over us and shouted 'Long live the Americans!'

Persons who know nothing about the conditions have criticized Lady Paget because she refused to leave her hospital full of wounded Serbians when every one else was flying out of Serbia before the incoming Bulgarians.

Serbian families terrified were running in every direction. Just to get away. I saw a crowd of these refugees, women and children—being sent away from Scoplje.

Where the Bulgarian troops had been quartered the houses were indescribably filthy. Poking through the alleys of the Turkish quarter I came upon a fifteenth century caravanserai, on one side a mosque, on the other a Turkish bath.

Journey to Railway Station.
We drove from the Paget hospital the night we left in a ramshackle victoria.

STING FOR CLUBWOMEN

Julia Lathrop Charges Many of Them Are Selfish in Taking Good Things of Chicago and Giving Nothing in Return.

MRS. JULIA LATHROP, head of the children's bureau at Washington, D. C., believes that many clubwomen of Chicago are getting more out of the city than they are putting into it. In a talk at the Woman's City club luncheon at the Auditorium hotel, and later at a meeting of the Parents' league at the residence of Mrs. George Latham, 1340 North State street, she criticized such women as selfish.

"I believe that wherever there is a body of educated women with leisure they are not doing their duty to this city when they do not work to make it a better place in which to live," she said. "They get all the good things of the city, but so often they give nothing in return. Such women should be ashamed of themselves if they do not aid in civic progress. They ought to be ashamed if they do not march in the suffrage parade."

Miss Lathrop asked the women to use their influence to see that the civil service laws are not abused, to increase the scope of civil service, and to work for old age pensions among civil service employees.

The Turkish driver, a Rhaki English army muffer wound turbanwise around his head, running beside us singing oriental songs to the moon or complimenting his horses as they wandered down the road at their own sweet will.

Waiting in the Bulgarian station commandant's office I noticed a map of the railway yards hanging on the wall, significantly divided in the middle by a heavy black line. One side was marked for Germans and one for Bulgarians. The commandant ushered us into the train, wrote "reserves for the military" over the compartment, and hung on the German sign he had carefully printed in German on the bottom of a pasteboard box. "Enraged."

There were no lights. On the floor of the first car, unknown refuse lay by the last occupants.

German Officers Feervish.
Four persons in one compartment is not luxurious traveling, but it was much better than any one else had. German officers would come to the door and peer in, flashing the electric torch they wear on their chests on our signs.

We heard them grumbling. "Americans have places; Detuschers officers have to stand." The Bulgarian station commandant was delighted. He had "out one over" on the German.

E. B. McLEAN, ILL. GOES EAST
Wealthy Man Sees Baltimore Surgeon—Wife with Him, but Not $100,000,000 Baby.

Baltimore, Md., May 18.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, registered here this afternoon, having come to consult Dr. J. H. T. Flannery concerning Mr. McLean's health. Mr. McLean's family owns the Cincinnati Enquirer and the Washington Post.

Mrs. McLean is a daughter of the late Thomas F. Walsh, the mine owner. They did not bring their $100,000,000 baby with them.

NEW ORLEANS TO GET OPERA
New Orleans, La., May 18.—The famous old French Opera house was sold at public auction today for $45,000, to satisfy claims against the owners, a bankrupt opera company. It was bought by a syndicate of business men who propose to operate it as a semi-municipal institution for opera, carnival balls, and social events. The main part of the opera house was erected about 180 years ago.

WILD SCENE IN REICHSTAG MADE BY SOCIALISTS

Letter Details Session Which Split Party: "Can Never Be Reunited."

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—The first detailed story of the recent split of the Socialist party in the German reichstag, which resulted in the formation of a new ultra-radical party, was obtained today in a private and uncorroborated letter received by a prominent German of New York from a friend in Berlin who witnessed the memorable session.

"German social democracy," the letter says, "today broke into splinters that can hardly ever be grafted together again. At the same time the body representing the German people witnessed the most shameful spectacle in its history, and the blame belongs to a few men whose international doctrines are higher than the cause of their fatherland."

"Deputy Haase, who let loose the storm, was at one time the leader and spokesman of the Social-Democratic party. Four-fifths of that party has repudiated and abandoned him."

Haase Grows Vindictive.
"Deputy Scheidemann had declared in the name of the Social-Democratic party that its vote approving the 'emergency budget' was conditional. To Deputy Haase this was not sufficient. He took the house by complete surprise, launching a vitriolic speech, which made it impossible for President Kaempff to permit it."

"Myself and a number of my friends," Haase said, "see in the emergency budget a question of confidence in the government, as it precludes the decision of the main budget. As I reject the latter, so I must refuse my consent to the emergency budget."

"Long since the favorable military situation would have made it possible for the German people to extend the hand of peace and thus to serve the growing will of all nations."

"Just as little as we will be beaten will we be able to force our enemies to their knees. There will be neither conquerors nor conquered when this war is ended. Europe is staggering toward pauperization. What sense is there in a prolongation of the war? We Social Democrats who loathe war."

President Interrupts Him.
President Kaempff interrupted the speaker here by saying:

"Such statements can be made only in a debate on the main budget, but not now."

"It must not be overlooked that we could already have a peace which aims only at the maintenance of the independence of all nations," Haase continued.

"For the Social Democrats it is a bitter tragedy that the common ideas of the people."

"At this juncture the house began to be thrown into tumult. Deputy Kaempff called: 'No German workingman thinks that way!'"

"This was met by numerous exclamations from the Socialist minority, which were in turn followed by jeers and hoots from the National Liberals. For several minutes pandemonium reigned until President Kaempff renewed his admonition to return to the subject under discussion. Deputy Haase went on: 'You do not want to hear the truth. [Call: 'We don't want to hear your seditionary remarks!'] The capitalists of all countries do not dispute the fact that the war long since has proved a blunder. I should think that only ingenuous and unscrupulous persons would [Deputy Kaempff: 'Would talk like you!'] Jeers and catcalls directed against Haase, who finishes his sentence. To judge the situation correctly, to learn the intrigues that are going on not only in Wilhelmstrasse but also—

Cuts Off Speaker Again.
"A new admonition from President Kaempff cut off Haase's sentence. Deputy Ledebour, Socialist, sympathizing with Haase, calls, 'Siege president!'"

This is followed by general laughter. Haase went on: 'Owing to this infringement of my freedom of speech I will only say that the capitalist order of things has convicted itself, because it was not only unable to prevent in the birth the fury of war but also—'

"President Kaempff again called the speaker to order and asked the house whether it would allow Haase to continue. All parties with the exception of part of the Social Democrats voted against Haase's resumption of his speech."

DEAN WIGMORE WANTS U. S. TO SIDE WITH THE ALLIES.
Publishes Pamphlet Urging Americans to Give Active Sympathy to Foes of the Germans.

Dean John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern university law school is convinced that America, for the sake of its future, should be pro-Ally. Unlike many people of the same belief, Dean Wigmore goes further and says that Americans should lend their active sympathy to the cause of the allies, "which is a cause of self-defense against a common world danger—a danger both to our bodies and to our ideals."

So strong is Prof. Wigmore's conviction that he has had published a pamphlet which he has mailed to his friends, entitled "My Creed in the World War." It concludes "on such an issue we may be neutral, but we cannot be neuter."

After referring to the growth of militarism in Germany, Dean Wigmore says: "Like a once peaceful Indian tribe, made madly drunken with bad whisky, the German nation has been dragged into supporting Prussian militarism in its obnoxious, arrogant, unscrupulous, and futile ambition to impose itself upon the world. All Europe is now engaged in a ghastly struggle to save itself and the world's future from this repulsive fate. Germany must be disarmed, then confined until it sleeps off its intoxication and awakes to remorse for the misery it has caused."

Arrest Husband on Wife's Race.
M. Blakeslee of 4020 Grand boulevard, a telephone operator, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with non-support of his wife, Mrs. Alice Blakeslee. She obtained the warrant, then called her husband on the telephone and made an appointment to meet him in the loop. She led detectives to the appointed place and he was arrested.

STATE CHARGES WITNESSES WERE TAMPERED WITH

After Twenty-one Trial Days
Seven Jurors Are Chosen
In Labor Cases.

Three witnesses for the prosecution in the labor conspiracy cases have been tampered with, it was charged in court yesterday, by Assistant State's Attorney Marvin E. Barnhart.

"A number of state's witnesses, three that I know of so far, have been approached and asked to make statements to the effect that they had not paid money to any of the defendants," said Mr. Barnhart. "They witnesses asked to make these statements in affidavit form. The witnesses refused and came to me and told me of the matter."

"These witnesses," continued the assistant state's attorney, "are among those upon whose testimony we are relying largely for conviction."

Judge Scanlan ordered Assistant State's Attorney Marvin E. Barnhart, Edwin J. Raber, and Nicholas Michela, who are prosecuting the cases, to investigate. If they can substantiate the charges they are directed to turn over the evidence to the court.

Many of the talesmen have avowed they would fear violence in the event of a conviction. So far in the twenty-one court days the trial has been dragging on only seven jurymen have been accepted, and of that number but four have been sworn. No additional jurymen were accepted yesterday.

LANDIS CURIOUS ABOUT RAILROAD LAWYERS' FEES.

Attorneys Uncertain Whether He's in Earnest or Not—Mayer Thinks It's None of Court's Business.

Railroad lawyers who have been connected with adjusting affairs of the Chicago and Milwaukee electric railroad are not certain whether Judge Landis was "sarcastic, or just kidding" yesterday.

"Gentlemen," said Judge Landis, "I know that what I am going to ask you is none of my business, but I am curious to know just what your fees are going to be in this case. Of course, every one knows that lawyers never collect large fees."

"Well, when the litigation began I only asked for $15,000," said Attorney John P. Wilson, "but the extra work and the continuance of this matter has led me to ask $25,000."

"Is that all?" exclaimed the judge. "Your honor must remember that this case has been going on a long time," said Attorney Leasing Rosenthal. "I want to prevent the idea getting abroad that the fees are excessive."

"O. no," said the judge. "Lawyers' fees are not excessive. I guess you gentlemen have no objection to this coming out in court."

"Yes, I have," said Attorney Levy Mayer. "I think it is no concern of the court what fees we get from the reorganization committee. I am going to let the committee fix my fee. If it isn't enough I'm going to 'holler.'"

FIND THREE LIVE SKELETONS IN MYSTERY HOME

Brooklyn Investigators Discover
Woman and Two Daughters
Voluntary Prisoners.

New York, May 18.—(Special.)—One of those Police tales which give the hearer a thrill of horror while challenging credulity came to light in Brooklyn today. It concerns three patients in the Kings County hospital—Mrs. Emma Hall and her daughters, Frances and Florence.

Representatives of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children gained admission late Wednesday night to their apartment on the second floor of 169 Stuyvesant avenue, a comfortable house in a good neighborhood, and had them taken to the hospital.

It was learned that for two years the mother and daughters had been voluntary prisoners in two rooms and had never seen the light of day. All three were like living skeletons. The girls, 23 and 20 years old, each weighed scarcely more than seventy-five pounds.

Never Occupied.
During the entire two years their household goods had not been unpacked. They had slept in a bed. They had eaten out of uncleaned tin cans and had no food brought every other day by Mrs. Hall, second husband of the mother. He is a watchman, 70 years old.

The condition of Mrs. Hall and both her daughters is such that it is doubtful if they will live long. Neighbors recently heard voices in the flat, high pitched like those of children, crying and moaning, and notified the children's society that something seemed wrong in the flat of mystery, as it was known, because no one was ever seen going in or out.

L. L. Peterson, assistant superintendent of the society, investigated and gained admission to the flat.

Skin Like Parchment.
An astonishing figure greeted the investigators. It was that of an old woman, little white haired, bent, with skin like parchment drawn across the bones of her face. She wore a loose calico gown, terribly grimed. On her head were three night caps, one above the

Mrs. Martha M. Ruggles Celebrated on Wednesday Her Fifty-second Anniversary of Continuous Service in Chicago Schools.

Mrs. Martha M. Ruggles

Mrs. Martha M. Ruggles is teaching the grandchildren of some of the pupils she taught when she first began work for the board of education as a teacher in the Franklin school on May 17, 1864. Her fifty-second anniversary of continuous service in the schools was celebrated at a luncheon tendered in her honor on Wednesday at the Ogden school, of which she has been principal for several years. "I remember reading THE TRIBUNE when I was 10 years old and I have read it ever since," she said.

other. Topping these, ludicrously, was an immense sunbonnet.

At a table sat the daughters. Their faces were strikingly white. Their eyes glowed fiercely in hollowed sockets. Their long black hair was matted and their calico gowns, like their mother's, were soiled beyond description.

Get Raw Meats.
In front of each woman's chair was a plate containing raw duck eggs, raw tapoca, and a saucer of milk. This was their supper.

There was no bedclothing in the apartment. Beds were found, but they had not been unpacked. The rooms beyond the two in which the women lived were not only locked but their door knobs were tied fast with rope and wire.

HIGH OPINION OF ERBSTEIN AS LAWYER BARS VENIREMAN

Engineer Thinks Attorney Gets Too Many Guilty Men Free and Is Excused "for Cause."

The ability of Attorney Charles E. Erbstein as a lawyer was praised yesterday by a prospective venireman when being examined as to his qualifications to sit on a jury to try Erbstein, who, with Attorney Patrick H. O'Donnell and four others, is charged with conspiracy, to suborn perjury in some of the police graft trials.

Stanley D. Fairclough, 2632 Warren avenue, an engineer, was called to the jury box. Attorney Willard McEwen, representing Erbstein, asked:

"Have you any prejudices against Mr. Erbstein?"

"Well, I have no personal feeling against him."

"What do you mean by 'nothing personal'?"

"Well, I have been following Mr. Erbstein's career in the newspapers for years, and it appears to me that he got off too many men who I thought were guilty. He is said to be a wonderful talker before a jury."

Mr. Fairclough was excused for cause. Only two men have been tentatively accepted by both sides.

CHICAGO "GUNMEN" DENIED LENIENCY BY PARDON BOARD

Trio Convicted of Murder and Robbery Must Serve Maximum Sentences Imposed by Courts.

Joliet, Ill., May 18.—(Special.)—The state board of pardons today went one step further on its campaign against crime in Chicago when three Chicago gunmen serving sentences in Joliet for murder received the maximum punishment possible for the board to impose. The men are:

Thomas P. Warden, 37 years old, serving thirty years for murder and one year to life for robbery with a gun.

Edward Kromboller, 31 years old, twenty-five years for murder and one to life for robbery with a gun.

Clyde McCloskey, serving one to life for robbery with a gun and one to fourteen years for robbery.

The trio resided in Chicago four years ago. In one of their raids a man was killed. They were received here April 30, 1915. Their cases were reviewed yesterday.

"All these men must serve life sentences," said a board member. "They are desperate men. The board has no mercy in these cases."

George E. Chipman Under Knife. First Assistant Corporation Counsel George E. Chipman is at the Wesley Memorial hospital, where he was operated on for appendicitis Wednesday. It was said that his condition is favorable.

ZONE OF QUIET LIFTED AS LAUFERSKI CHILD GAINS

Complication of Bronchitis, However, May Call for Renewal of Order to Aid Fight for Life.

The zone of quiet was removed yesterday from about the house of Dorothy Constance Lauferski, 5008 Indiana avenue, the 14 months old prize baby. Dr. Julius Hess, who has been attending the child, decided last night that she was sufficiently improved to warrant taking down the barriers across Indiana avenue and Sixtieth street.

However, the child suffered a relapse. She developed bronchitis, which may become serious. If she does not improve her father says he will petition again for the establishment of a quiet zone.

Lauferski, who obtained Chief Healey's permission to punch the nose of A. P. Blakeslee, a neighbor, who protested against the blocking of the street and said the Lauferskis had not paid their rent, went over to see Blakeslee, but found that his neighbor had left town.

"My skin trouble started with a few water pimples between the fingers of my left hand. My hand was red and itched and always and itched so I had to do something, so I would rub it with a rough cloth until it looked as if it was ready to burst and bleed, and I was kept awake at night with it. FABYAN DESERTS CLASSICS STUDY FOR MOONSHINE Baronial Research Starts Into Lunar Effects on Flowers and Vegetables.

"Well, I allow plants my tastes in the dark of the moon and there ain't a man in the county kin teach my crop."

"Just the same, Ebenezer, I reckon you all gotta say my watermelon planted in the light of the moon is the best ever."

From Classics to Soil.

So they argue down in Missouri, according to Tom Tansum correspondent in Evanston, and now Col. George Fabyan of Shakespearean-beg pardon, of Evanston—these are going to find out just what effect the phases of the moon do have on flowers and vegetables. With this end in view, a series of horticultural and agricultural experiments are being conducted at the Fabyan farm in Geneva.

Professor Gives Tip.

Prof. Arthur C. L. Brown, head of the English department at Northwestern university, brought that bit of information to Evanston yesterday after visiting the colonel at Geneva. Prof. Brown would not discuss the details of Col. Fabyan's tests, but said he had absolute faith in the colonel's sincerity.

Col. Fabyan is in New York, but Mrs. Fabyan admitted over the telephone last night that experiments in growing flowers and vegetables were being conducted at the farm under the direction of William Friedman. Mrs. Fabyan said she was not in a position to discuss the details of the experiments.

LIKENS MIND OF MME. KELLOGG TO CHILD OF 13

Nephew, a Physician, Says She Could Not Think Deeply
After Illness.

MADE CALL ON DR. MILLER.

Mrs. Sarah H. Kellogg "was capable of understanding the ordinary simple matter such as a child of 13 could, but on complicated matters requiring deep thought could not pass judgment," according to the testimony of Dr. Philip A. Doane, her nephew, given yesterday in Judge Windsor's court. Dr. Doane was a witness for Mrs. Sarah H. Kellogg, Mrs. Kellogg's daughter, who has brought suit to break her mother's will and codicil setting aside life estates in $100,000 for friends and relatives.

Dr. Doane was the second witness placed on the stand yesterday by John E. Miller, attorney for Mrs. Kellogg. He said that he had seen Mrs. Kellogg three times within the year following her stroke of paralysis in February, 1910. On these occasions, he said, the only one on which he saw her from the time of the stroke until her death in April of last year, he had difficulty in understanding her attempts at speech.

Spoke of Her Daughter.
During one of his visits, Dr. Doane said, Mrs. Kellogg told him she wanted her daughter well taken care of. The physician said that Mrs. Kellogg was with him on all three times that he visited the elder woman's room.

"What was your opinion of Mrs. Kellogg's mental capacity?" Mr. Miller asked.

"Well," the physician replied, "I formed the opinion that she was capable of understanding the ordinary, simple matter such as a child of 13 could, but on complicated matters requiring deep thought I do not think that she could pass judgment."

Kellogg Doane, Dr. Doane's brother, was a witness for the complainant. He said he saw Mrs. Kellogg two occasions after her stroke of paralysis. In June, 1912, he said, he called on Dr. Joseph L. Miller, Mrs. Kellogg's physician, who told him, Mr. Doane said, that Mrs. Kellogg was not in a condition to alter her will.

Doane's Recital Statement.
By Miller, recalled from cross examination by Mr. Miller, testified that he could recall no such conversation with Mrs. Doane, who was pointed out to him in the courtroom. The physician said he did not know Mr. Doane and could not remember that he had ever seen him. Dr. Miller maintained in his testimony that he did not believe Mrs. Kellogg's stroke of paralysis incapacitated her mentally, so far as he could observe, he said, there was no mental impairment.

"Difference between Mrs. Kellogg and Miss Frances Lund, one of the beneficiaries under the will, reached a climax in the spring of 1910, according to Dr. Miller.

"I recall that Mrs. Kellogg was contemplating leaving the house," the physician said. "She was everlastingly getting up and down, and there was some question as to whether she would remain at Mrs. Kellogg's house at all. It was a question of either Mrs. Kellogg or Miss Lund leaving."

"I recall that Mrs. Kellogg was contemplating leaving the house," the physician said. "She was everlastingly getting up and down, and there was some question as to whether she would remain at Mrs. Kellogg's house at all. It was a question of either Mrs. Kellogg or Miss Lund leaving."

HE SLIPPED UP ON THE NAME
Dr. Herman G. Wetherston writes to wife from Different Hotel and Divorce Follows.

A single word—a different hotel name—was sufficient for a wise woman. Mrs. Helen G. Wetherston resided in Indianapolis with her husband, Dr. Herman G. Wetherston, who was wont to travel widely and far. Generally, when in Chicago, he stayed at the Alexandria hotel. On one occasion his letters to his wife were sent to Port Dearborn hotel stationery. "I grew suspicious," says Mrs. Wetherston. Wherefore Judge Kerston yesterday granted her a divorce. She testified, coming to Chicago, she had hoped that her husband had been intimate with another woman.

BIG NIGHT HAS WILD END IN A DRUG STORE BATTLE.

Hilarious Quartet Uses Bottles from Shelves as Weapons in Oak Park
Fight to Reveal.

After a blizzard in the loop cabarets four men gathered around the keyhole in an Oak Park drug store early yesterday and tried to make the key go in.

"Whaaaaa, thinkin' you 'at can't open 'n' own key 'ole, wot?" asked one of the four.

Whereupon Jay G. Butler, proprietor of the drug store, hit Mr. Dean Luckey upon his unfortunate nose. Henry Atkinson then took a crack at Mr. Butler, and Frank Schilling, chief clerk for Butler, rallied to his truculent boss.

A side door was opened and the belligerents made a rush for the shelves of bottles to use as missiles.

The bombardment then took on a note of frightfulness. The shiver and jangle of glass and reports of bursting chemical bottles drew the attention of residents of the vicinity. Traffic was forced to stop because the line of fire was directly across the street. The warriors paid no attention to pleas to let up a bit until pedestrians could pass.

Luckey and Atkinson were arrested. Butler and Schilling disappeared and could not be found.

ROOSEVELT TAKES THE LEAD IN MOCK U. CONVENTION.

400 Midway Students Adopt Preparedness Program—Nominations Made Amid Deafening Din.

The mock convention of the University of Chicago met in its first session yesterday afternoon in Mandel hall and adopted a preparedness platform.

Over 400 students, both men and women, were present. Nomination speeches were made amidst a deafening din.

On the first ballot Roosevelt took the lead. The vote stood: Roosevelt, 185; Hughes, 175; Ford, 164; Sherman, 152; Penrose, 147; Root, 146.

The platform also advocated extension of women's rights. It censured the Democratic party for using the White House as a matrimonial bureau, and advised the enactment of a law providing for free tuition and text books to all students. The balloting will continue tomorrow afternoon until a nomination is made.

46, TAKEN IN RAIDS, FINED.

Twenty-three men and an equal number of women taken in raids on alleged disorderly houses were yesterday given fines of $1 and $2 costs by Judge Joseph La Bay. Attorney Northrup, representing six of the seven hotel proprietors involved in the raids, consented to enter a plea of guilty if the city would agree to a fine of $1 and costs of $2. This was accepted. M. A. Campbell, proprietor of the Decatur hotel, 1559 West Madison street, chose to defend his case.

EXPRESS STRIKE PEACE POSSIBLE AS MAYOR ACTS

Employers Discuss Accepting
His Good Offices to End
Drivers' Walkout.

FEWER CASES OF VIOLENCE.

Peace appeared hardly on the horizon of the express drivers' strike yesterday, but there were no indications it would get any nearer for a day or two at least. Representatives of the strikers called late in the afternoon at the office of Mayor Thompson and asked him to use his "good offices" in requesting the express company officials to select a committee to meet with a committee of strikers in an effort to settle the controversy.

Statements were made by officials of several of the companies, however, that under no consideration would they agree to recognize the drivers' union, which was the primary reason that the drivers went out.

Mayor Presents Request.
The mayor agreed to present the request made to him to the company representatives, and Charles Pittomoro, the mayor's secretary, delivered the message by telephone to E. A. Stedman, who is acting as spokesman for the companies.

Mr. Stedman at once arranged for a conference of express company representatives. It was stated, and agreed to notify the mayor what action had been taken by 9 o'clock this morning.

Previously Mr. Stedman was asked by newspaper men whether the companies would agree to submit the controversy to arbitration, with Mayor Thompson as the third party, which was suggested by the strike leaders.

Cannot Pledge Acceptance.
"Officials of the express companies have great respect for the mayor," he replied, "but in advance of such a proposition being formally placed before us, we do not desire to pass on his qualifications as an arbitrator."

"Officials of the express companies have great respect for the mayor," he replied, "but in advance of such a proposition being formally placed before us, we do not desire to pass on his qualifications as an arbitrator."

Violence Not So Great.
Violence was not so great as on previous days. The most serious trouble was at a Monroe and Dearborn streets, where a crowd of strike sympathizers gathered threateningly about two drivers and three guards on an American Express company wagon. In escaping the wagon was wrecked down and injured a 14-year-old boy, Jack Holmwood of 3311 West Thirty-ninth place.

One nonunion driver, Albert Fedack of 2211 Madison avenue, was attacked and badly beaten by seven strike sympathizers. Harry Sampson of 2046 Lake Park avenue was arrested. A striker was struck by a policeman as he attempted to intercept an express wagon.

Six hundred policemen are on duty in connection with the express and other strikes. The express companies have employed more than 100 special policemen.

The total number of workers now out in the express strike is 1,850, it is said.

Reports that members of the freight handlers' union employed in the various railroad warehouses would start a sympathetic strike were denied by the union's secretary, J. B. Roche.

Practically all the freight handlers in the employ of the express companies were on strike, however. Officials of the companies asserted their action was not voluntary but was taken because they were intimidated by the striking drivers. Denial of this was made at strike headquarters.

One phase of the strike is that it has brought about an enormous increase in parcel post business.

STRIKERS SAY CITY MAY HAVE TO BURN ONLY GAS.

Leaders of Linemen and Helpers' Strike Predict Tieup in Electrical Service.

Leaders of the strike of linemen and helpers employed by the Commonwealth Edison company declared last night that if their demands are not acceded to today a general strike of power house operators will be called, bringing out 8,000 men.

Then, officers of the electrical workers' union asserted, private users of electric light and power in the city will be forced to use gas. This statement was made last evening at a meeting of local No. 9 of the union. A business agent of the union said there are now nearly 500 men on strike. These include, he declared, linemen, groundmen, and trouble men.

As the result of the refusal of the W. M. Kimball company to accede to the demands of the piano regulators and mill hands for a wage increase of 20 per cent and a reduction in working hours, the men walked out on Tuesday. Wednesday the piano manufacturers closed the plant, throwing 1,000 men out of work. This became known early yesterday.

Chicago officials of the Santa Fe railroad are not afraid of a strike, because they believe the men will not vote for one and will not walk out if called upon to by the leaders of the brotherhoods. Their opinion was strengthened yesterday with news that a backfire movement was gaining headway among the men in New Mexico and California to withdraw from the eight hour demand and time and one-half for overtime.

Edison Company Cuts Light Rate to Small User

Schedule Filed with Utilities
Body May Mean
Sav.ing of $1,000,000.

CHARGE A CENT LESS

A new schedule of rates for Chicago electric service, which, it is said, will effect an annual saving to consumers of $1,000,000 was filed yesterday by the Commonwealth Edison company with the state utilities commission for approval.

The chief reduction is in the primary (maximum) rate for electricity and from 10 cents (net) to 9 cents (net) a kilowatt hour. This applies to all of the 258,346 retail customers of the company, both retail lighting and retail power customers. In addition substantial reductions are made in the wholesale schedule.

Present Ordinances Cited.
The company under the present city ordinance is allowed to charge 10 cents (net) as the primary rate.

As an example of what the reduction means, it is explained that in October, 1915, the average rate paid by 141,620 customers living in apartments was 7.52 cents a kilowatt hour, the average bill being $1.73. With the primary rate 9 cents, instead of the present 10 cents, the average rate would have been 6.98 cents a kilowatt hour and the average bill $1.60. The minimum monthly bill will be 50 cents.

Rate Tendency Downward.
As showing a downward tendency of rates, it is pointed out that a dollar will buy over five times as much electric light here today as it would ten years ago.

On March 1 last a reduction was made in the cost of tungsten incandescent electric lamps (for renewal) and in street post, electric sign, and other similar forms of flat rate lighting.

The proposed primary rate reduction from 10 cents (net) to 9 cents (net), as provided in the schedule filed today, is to take effect July 1, 1916.

Merriam Makes Statement.

A copy of the Commonwealth Edison statement was received by the council committee on gas, oil, and electric light. "It appears," said Ald. Charles E. Merriam, commenting on the letter, "that the two companies—the gas company and the Edison company—though backed by the same financiers, are pursuing different policies. The gas company, according to its offer to the city, desires to increase the use of gas by large consumers, while the Edison company makes it appear that that company is desirous of increasing the use of electricity by the small consumer."

NEW YORK WOMAN LEAVES $750,000 TO METHODISM.

Mrs. James, Presbyterian, Leaves
Similar Amounts to Ministerial Claimants of Own Church.

Mrs. Ellen Stebbins Curtis James, who died April 28 at her home in New York City, left a bequest in her will of $750,000 for the board of conference claimants of the Methodist Episcopal church, General building, Chicago.

This is the largest bequest which has ever been received by this connectional board.

Mrs. James was the widow of D. Wilber James, who died in 1907, and whose benefactions were liberal.

Mrs. James left bequests of a similar amount for the relief of ministerial claimants of both the Presbyterian and Congregational churches. She was a Presbyterian.

The Chicago Presbyterian hospital has unexpectedly fallen heir to $150,000. This sum, it was learned from a reliable source last night, had been left the hospital by James Longley, a Boston banker, who died recently. The bequest, according to the will, is made without restrictions.

Mr. Longley, it is said, became interested in the Presbyterian hospital through the father of Fred Rawson, president of the Union Trust company of Chicago.

ADVISE TEACHERS' PAY CUT.

School Management Committee
Votes to Reduce Vacation
Salaries.

By a vote of six to two the school management committee of the board of education yesterday refused to grant teachers in the vacation school the salary rate of the remainder of the year.

It was stated that if the regular salaries were paid the contingent fund would be wiped out. The teachers will be paid $4 a day and the principals $8 a day. The regulation will affect 200 teachers and twelve principals.

Max Loeb, although not a member of the committee, led the fight to maintain the year round salary.

The committee approved unanimously the plan to establish a course in military training in the high schools. It will come before the full board on Wednesday. A request of the Illinois Turnpike that no action be taken was placed on file.

THE MOTHER OF THE MATTERS BABY?

Canadian Girl Who Will Take the Stand in Matters Baby Case Today and Tell of Her Unfortunate Love Affair.

BOOKMEN HEAR A. J. BEVERIDGE

Urged by Former Senator to Guide Young to Patriotic Reading.

Albert J. Beveridge, former United States senator, turned to the question of preparedness last night at the annual banquet of the American bookmen at the Congress hotel. He appealed to the book men to try to influence young people to read history and biography which, he said, would cause them to realize the need for preparedness and which would imbue them with a tendency of purpose that will make the cry for preparedness more than a passing whim.

"Everybody is talking about preparedness and hundreds of thousands are marching in preparedness parades," he said. "This is more than well. It would be better if it should last. But unless popular habit has recently changed our spirit toward arm readiness is likely to subside. For we have not yet acquired that national state of mind which persists in steady effort until the desired end is reached."

Lulled by Long Immunity.
"Our peculiar history, or previous immunity from attack, and other familiar elements of our national life have created an extreme individualism, and every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost spirit, that will take hard work to overcome. But it must be overcome, for it is economically, socially, and spiritually anti-national and abnormal."

"Perhaps no one group can do more to bring this about than you men and women who sell books. Your suggestions to book buyers are influential. A popular knowledge of our previous history would be helpful to us now. The American public requires guidance as to books in many lines, but in none more than in our own history. You can guide, you can lead, you can think and informed and well considered acting."

Sees Peril in Orient.
Mr. Beveridge believes that danger is likely to come to us from the Orient rather than from Europe.

"It is not impossible," he said, "that the real Armageddon will come between the Orient and the Orient. In that case, the first blow would fall on us. Should that hour arrive, let us be in a position where, shoulder to shoulder with all other nations of kindred blood, we can fight not only for our country's interests but for the preservation of western civilization."

Emerson Hough urged a sentiment against filthy, lustreless, and worthless books. Other speakers were James Keeler and Maria Thompson Davies. Wilbur D. Nesbit was toastmaster. Among those at the speakers' table were John T. McCutcheon, Edna Ferber, Edwin Palmer, Henry K. Carter, Edgar Rice Burroughs, and James W. Foley.

At the morning session Ward MacAuley of Detroit was elected president. The next convention will be held in Boston.

The entrance examination of candidates finally selected will be held at Fort Sheridan.

CLYNE-HOPKINS SPLIT LAID TO REBATING CASES

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(Special.)—Pending indictments of officials and former officials of the New York Central railroad and the O'Garra Coal company were partly responsible for the final rupture between District Attorney Charles F. Clyne of Chicago and his assistant, Albert L. Hopkins, according to information obtained here today. Mr. Clyne, it was learned, has taken the cases from Mr. Hopkins on the plea that he wished to handle them personally.

These indictments have been long hanging over the heads of the two men. They charge conspiracy to violate the interstate commerce law and the Elkins act by giving and accepting rebates on coal shipments and practically financing the O'Garra Coal company with the funds of the New York Central lines. The charges, included in three indictments containing 21 counts, were returned on July 31, 1914, when James H. Wilkerson was district attorney in Chicago.

At that time Mr. Hopkins, who had been appointed by Mr. Wilkerson, was one of the in charge of the government's case. Later, after Mr. Wilkerson left and Mr. Clyne was appointed, the two men remained in charge of the prosecution until his removal about ten days ago.

Not First Row Over Bills.
This is not the first time that the rebating indictments have caused trouble in the offices of the United States attorney in Chicago. When Mr. Wilkerson brought the indictments, the attorney general at that time James H. McPherson, communicated with Mr. Wilkerson.

Mr. Wilkerson replied that he regarded the prosecutions as important, and the indictments were returned before Judge Geiger. A few weeks later Mr. Wilkerson left the district attorney's office for good, and it was generally believed in Washington and Chicago that he was asked to resign as a result of his action in the rebate cases.

Then Clyne Takes Job.
Mr. Clyne, a close friend of Gov. Dunne, was appointed to succeed Mr. Wilkerson, and after something of a fight his nomination was confirmed by the senate. Mr. Clyne was recommended and energetically championed by Senator Lewis. At that time the general impression was that it was understood the cases against the railroad and coal company officials were to be left alone. One report was that, if possible, the indictments were to be nolle prossed after the lapse of two or three years.

Whatever may have been the understanding, the cases were never brought to trial. They slept peacefully until the troubles of Mr. Clyne and Mr. Hopkins brought them again into prominence. Among those named in the indictments are William C. Brown, retired president of the New York Central lines, who has political ambitions, and Thomas J. O'Garra, head of the coal company. Others named are officials of either the railroad or the coal company. Indictments also were returned against the coal company, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad, the Big Four, and the Chicago, Indiana, and Southern railroad.

TWO MEN OF 50 SUED FOR BALM

One Girl Was a Housekeeper and the Other Just a Friend.

New we are old and wise and gray
And shaky at the knees;
Now is the time to tell
To love affairs like these.
—With thanks to G. K. Chesterton.

Not ever in the darkest ride of Dick Turpin adown an English highroad or through the pages of an historical romance was done a more knavish trick, says Miss Virginia Foster, than Aurelius Turpin's theft of her fresh, 28-year old heart.

Mr. Turpin is 52 years old and has been once widowed and once divorced. Miss Foster yesterday sued him for $20,000.

He Has Company.
If the foregoing tidings bring Mr. Turpin misery, he has company in the person of Alexander Potgiesser, who has also been sued yesterday for $10,000 by Miss Maria Geringer.

Miss Geringer is a lady of middle age, estimated her attorney, H. I. Tuckner. "I do not know her address," Mr. Potgiesser is about 50 years old. Both parties reside on the north side. I do not know Mr. Potgiesser's business. I do not know whether he has ever been married. Further than what I've said I am dumb—except for this: I understand that Mr. Potgiesser several times has been threatened with suits for breach of promise."

Has Two Sons.
Aurelius C. Turpin resides at 1200 Washington boulevard. He has two sons, Arvin, 23 years old, and Ned, aged 20. Mrs. Foster lives with her mother at 7138 Westworth avenue.

"Miss Foster was our housekeeper," said Ned Turpin. "We have a fifty-six room house and we run a rooming house. My mother died about eighteen years ago. My father married Miss Myrtle Spear about 1900, and three years later she overtook him. He employed Mr. Foster last May to be general over-seer of the rooming house. I do not know what caused her to leave last February. If my father were in town he could tell you himself."

KILLED BY SPEEDING AUTO.
Louis Messner Dies from Injuries
When Hit as He Ailights from Car-Child's Skull Broken.

Louis Messner, 63 years old, 1044 Wells street, was fatally hurt yesterday when he was struck by a speeding automobile as he was alighting from a street car at Wells and Hill streets. The auto, which the car conductor said bore the license number 98,156, did not stop. Messner died last night in Passavant hospital.

Maria King, 6 years old, 1429 South State street, was struck by an automobile owned and driven by J. H. Hart, 514 Drexel avenue, at Fourteenth street and Wabash avenue. Her right leg was broken and her skull was fractured.

Avron Platt, 8 years old, 728 South Karlov avenue, fell under the wheels of an automobile delivery truck yesterday at West Polk street and South Crawford avenue while he was "kitching on." He died before the doctor came.

VETO OF CAR LINE REFUSED

An effort yesterday to persuade Mayor Thompson to veto the ordinance for the extension of a street car line in Lake Park avenue between Perry-street and Fifty-fifth streets was unsuccessful.

Bares Her Life.

"PLOT" DETAILED BY NURSE.

BY CAROLYN WILSON.

Today is psychologically the high water mark for the state in the Matters baby trial. Preceded by unshaken witnesses, who have laid the foundation for her story, "Jessie Bryan," she became the mother of the child which the state claims is the baby known as Irene Matters, who take the stand at 10 o'clock.

Up to this time she has been closely guarded from the public gaze, save for the dramatic moment when she appeared slightly beside the court bar, standing with shy eyes, between the black-robed master on the witness stand and the woman in the defendant's seat.

This morning she will go on the witness stand herself, this 19-year old girl, with the childlike eyes, and will make a plea for her baby. When her child was born she was told it was dead. Later, when she was told it had been given to Mrs. Matters, her address was not unknown with relief at the thought that it would be well cared for. But now she wants her child.

Nurse Tells Pathetic Incident.
Yesterday Mrs. Marie Louise des Rosiers, the nurse who was present at the birth of Jessie's baby and who says she afterward cared for the child as the daughter of Mrs. Matters, told of a little incident in connection with Jessie and her baby which was full of the coincidence of fate.

When Jessie came out of the ether, no one said anything to her about her baby. For a long time she lay wondering, hardly daring to ask, for she was timid and her surroundings were strange. She was crying. Miss des Rosiers went by and asked her why she was crying. "I haven't shown me my baby," she sobbed.

"Your baby is dead, Jessie," said Miss des Rosiers. "Don't cry."

The day went by. Jessie was up and around the hospital. One day in a corridor she saw Miss des Rosiers carrying a baby in her arms. It was dressed in exquisite robes. Its tiny head was covered with a lace cap.

"Jessie sees her child, Nurse says. 'O, let me see,' cried Jessie wildly, and looked at her own baby—according to the nurse's story.

"Where baby is it?" she asked.

The nurse turned her head away not to see the hungry mother stare at Jessie's eyes. "It is the little girl of a Mrs. Matters and it is going to be christened."

"Mine was a boy, wasn't it?" asked Jessie.

The testimony of Miss des Rosiers, who once testified that she had been present at the birth of a child to Mrs. Matters, corroborated in almost every detail the testimony which has preceded it.

Miss des Rosiers, who speaks with quite a French accent, was calm on the stand. She told of the birth of the baby to Jessie and a later operation on Mrs. Matters. She described the alleged horror of the defendants when she declared that it would be impossible for her to uphold the case and told away longer.

Tails of Talk with Mallon.
Miss des Rosiers quoted at length the conversation of Charles Mallon, a defendant. She said he described Chicago courts as against Catholics, ruled by 'A. P. A.' and places where she would receive scant courtesy and probably would be arrested for perjury. She quoted him thus:

"I'm in love with Mrs. Matters and I want to marry her. And I tell you I'd go to—let's see—for her."

Miss des Rosiers said Mallon and Mrs. Matters threatened to get girls who would swear that their babies had been taken away from them by the hospital, and either sold or killed. A week after this, she said, an article appeared in the Menace which "was enough to make my hair stand straight up."

At another time, speaking of the love affair between Mr. Mallon and Mrs. Matters, she testified Mrs. Matters said: "I'm going to marry Mr. Mallon if I have to wait ten years for him."

Referring to the suit for alienation of affection started by Mallon's wife, the nurse quoted Mrs. Matters:

"Do you think I'll pay her for her husband's affection when I can get it for nothing?"

Accused Suggested Hospital.
Mallon suggested that Mrs. Matters, who suggested going to the Ottawa hospital, since a stenographer of a Chicago doctor of his had used it once when in trouble.

Miss des Rosiers testified to taking pictures for Mrs. Matters when she was wearing pads which gave her the appearance of pregnancy and the pictures were sent to many Chicago friends. The nurse said she gave her first false testimony through a desire to shield the institution from harm.

"I said that I would not go for money," she testified, "but that I would go to save the hospital from black-mail. I talked with my confessor, who decided I must admit my perjury. So I came down to fight the wrong."

Society and Entertainments

Will Give Casino Film at the Strand.

THE Casino club announces that the special opening performance of "The Casino Players" in the first motion picture play "Casino Jim" will be given at the Strand theater Friday evening, June 2, at 8:30 o'clock. Through the courtesy of the Van De Production company the entire net proceeds of this performance will be given to the Casino club, to be distributed for charitable purposes.

"Owing to the size of the prospective audience the committee in charge and the producers found it quite impracticable to attempt to show the picture within the limited space and with the accommodations available at the Casino, hence the change in plans."

A movie hall at the Blackstone hotel will follow the production.

The committee in charge of the premiere of the picture and also of the movie ball which follows is composed of J. Allen Haines, chairman; Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. Honore Palmer, Miss Caroline Kirkland, Charles G. Cushing, Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, Roy McWilliams, Howard F. Gillette, and Robert J. Dunham.

The cast of "Casino Jim" will go to the studio of the Van De Production company this afternoon for their first view of the film.

Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Julius Rosenwald of 4001 Ellis avenue will have a children's French matinee for the benefit of the little French war orphans. Additional box holders for the May supper-dance, to be given in the gold room of the Hotel Lincoln, will be given to the benefit of the Mothers' Relief association, are Judge and Mrs. Theodore Brentano and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Lichtner.

BIG LONGS SELL WHEAT, SEVERE DROP IN PRICES

Market Runs Into Heavy Stop
Loss Liquidation—Other Grains Affected.

Wheat longs were stampeded yesterday and prices at the close showed a severe drop. For several days many of the smaller holders of wheat have been selling out in disgust, and a continuation of this liquidation yesterday finally dislodged some of the big long and ran the market into much deeper water. One of the bull leaders is believed to have sold out his line and gone on the short side to a considerable extent. The fact that the public has refused to become enthused over the bad crop news from Kansas is chiefly responsible for the desertion from the bull camp. The continued lack of material export demand for our wheat also is a depressing factor.

Weather conditions continued favorable for the crop, while damage reports were confined almost entirely to counties in Kansas, where the Hessian fly infestation is pronounced.

Liverpool Wheat is Weak.
Liverpool spot wheat was unchanged to 1d lower, with Manitoba and winter wheat cargoes 1/2d lower. Broomeham reports free offerings of Manitoba wheat and states that millers are trying to resell. He says that because of the liberal floating supplies and large reserves in Canada there is no apprehension there over the fact that continental Europe is shortening the bulk of the Argentine and Australian shipments.

There was less call for cash wheat here yesterday, even the best grades not meeting with good inquiry, and an easier feeling prevailed. Sales of 250,000 bu. were made to go to store and local shipping sales were 25,000 bu. Millers continue to complain of the dull flour trade, although Minneapolis reported the sale of 100,000 bags of patent flour to the United Kingdom at better prices than two days ago. Export sales of 80,000 bu. of wheat were reported at the seaboard, principally Manitoba.

Lake Rates are Easier.
Liberal Argentine wheat shipments are anticipated at the rate of 200,000 bu. a week, and the pressure of the Argentine market is 1,000,000 bu. Pressure for wheat soon on the lake boats has eased up some and a reduction in rates from Lake Superior ports to Buffalo is reported. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour yesterday were 1,474,000 bu.

Primary markets received 720,000 bu. of wheat, against 681,000 bu. a year ago. Local receipts were 60 cars. Winnipeg had 801 cars of wheat, compared with 183 a year ago, and the northern receipts were 285 cars, against 130 last year. Southwestern cars totaled 260, with 101 last year. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 10,000 bu. for five days, while Duluth stocks decreased 240,000 bu. for four days.

Corn Also Suffers Decline.
Corn was inclined to recede from early, but gave way with wheat later and closed 1/2c lower. Some of the long were shaken out, while shorts took advantage of the decline to buy. Reports of increased acreage continued to come in and weather conditions were favorable for planting. The shipping call for cash corn is still limited, and further sales of 200,000 bu. were made to go to store for delivery May 15. Cash corn was steady.

Omaha advisors indicated that Nebraska farmers are selling corn more freely, while on the other hand Kansas City claimed limited country sales with a better demand for cash corn from the south. Argentine shipments this week are estimated at 500,000 bu., against 475,000 bu. a year ago. Local receipts were 200 cars, and the seaboard reported 200,000 bu. for export.

Growing oats are making good progress under the excellent weather conditions, and farmers are more inclined to sell. Broomeham reports Argentine shipments are going largely to continental Europe, but are restricted because of the preference given wheat and corn in leading vessels.

Hog Product is Strong.
Hog product closed strong and prices at the finish were substantially higher. Liquidating sales caused values to rise around midseason, but support developed again late in the day and the break in prices had little influence. Prices for hogs at the yards were higher, with the firm lighter than expected. Liverpool appears to be overstocked with hog product for the moment, while the domestic cash trade is only fair.

However, the big holders of product display no apprehension, and the market yesterday was liberal at $4.11, 1000 lbs. against 2,410,000 lbs. a year ago. Lard shipments were 1,000,000 lbs. against 480,000 lbs. last year. Hog receipts at western markets were 25,000 head, against 17,500 a year ago.
